REVULSION IN EUROPE.

Opinions of the London Journals—The German Canard About the Elections—Dangers Apprehended and Prussia Responsible—England Arming Her Coast Defenses.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The journals, with one accord, this morning, in predicting calamities to Germany if she persevere in insisting on the cession of Alsace and Lorraine, and continuing the war, say if Paris holds out several months, an immense army will be formed behind its walls, while others will be created in the departments. Thus the Prussians will be caught between two overwhelming forces. The savage character the war is assuming in the burning of villages and the shooting of scores of peasantry for defending their homesteads, is causing a violent revulsion of feeling here.

THE FRENCH ELECTION.

As stated, the proclamation adjourning the elections for members to the Constituent Assembly, was a Bismarck canard. GAMBETTA brought no decree with him on the subject, and no decision was arrived at at Tours. The latter city is becoming a rendezvous for republicans from all parts of the world. The Fenian movement in that direction is causing uneasiness to the Government here.

EUROPEAN POLICY.

The policy of the European Cabinets to localize the war is likely to produce just the opposite effect. The English apprehend a general European convulsion, and the Prussians are incurring general indignation for provoking the danger. England is quietly preparing for the storm. While refusing to augment her military expenses, the Government is putting her sea-coast defences in an impregnable condition.

ENGLAND PREPARING FOR DEFENSE.

I see by the journals the results of experiments just made on improvements in the torpedo system. If they are as stated, no hostile fleet can ever touch the English shores. Besides this fresh element of invulner ability, I learn from an engineer officer actually engaged in the work that she is spending large sums in strengthening her seacoast defences, the south-east coast especially occupying her attention. The entrance of the Thames is being fortified in a manner not only calculated to repel an invasion, but to render impossible the disembarkation of an enemy. Sheerness will be strengthened by fresh forts, additional batteries of artillery of the largest calibre; defensive works of an important character are in process of execution. New-Haven and Liverpool, which have been so many years neglected, will be put in a state of complete defense.

CATTLE EXPORTS TO ENGLAND.

Our correspondent at Rouen writes that the French seaport towns are resisting all exportations of cattle and provisions to England. The proceeding, violent as it is, is dictated to prudence.

ENGLAND AND PRUSSIA.

Apprehensions in England of a European Convulsion—The Prussian Ambassador in London to Have Indefinite Leave of Absence.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The London Times in another leader this morning, deprecating the protraction of the war by Prussia as unreasonable and unwise, says, "the prospect for the Prussians, with Winter before them, is not cheerful, even if the harrassing attacks of the new levies may be despised." "The difficulty of the emergency," it adds, "will not certainly be solved even by the capture of Paris." A wonderful change in its tone since the beginning of the war. The upper class are becoming thoroughly frightened at the prospect of a European convulsion. The opinion is fast gaining ground that the French, beaten like the North at the beginning of the Southern rebellion, may end in driving out the invader and repaying the indifference of England to her misfortunes.

DELICATE RELATIONS.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—It is expected that Prussia, in view of the delicate relations with England, in consequence of the latter's alleged violation of neutrality, will give Count VON BERNSTORFF, the North German Ambassador, an indefinite leave of absence, leaving only a Chargé d'Affaires at London.

OPERATIONS IN THE NORTH.

Communication Between Western and Northern France Threatened—Civil and Military Inharmony—Fifteen Thousand Troops Without a Head—Amiens Threatened by the Germans.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—"Nickwacket," a special correspondent of the NEW-YORK TIMES, writing from the City of Rouen, Oct. 11, states that the Germans are not only at Gisors, but at Gournay, on the railway between Rouen and Amiens. The only line connecting the northern with the western portion of France is, therefore, threatened to be cut, probably at Forges-les-Eaux.

INHARMONY OF THE CIVIL AND MILITARY POWERS.

The most deplorable discord continues to exist between the French civic and military authorities. Gen. GUDIN sent a body of men and two pieces of artillery to Forges, the other day, but they were met by counter orders from the Sous-Prefect, and sent in different directions.

NEED FOR A DICTATOR.

This correspondent adds that if some General would assume the dictatorship, the whole country would bless and support him.

TROOPS WITHOUT A HEAD.

There are between Rouen and Havre 15,000 French troops of all kinds, but they are under the orders of every one, and can be found nowhere exactly.

THE ADVANCE ON AMIENS.

The Prussians occupy Breteuil. [This place is on the Northern Railroad, about twelve or fifteen miles south of Amiens. It was once fortified, but is now a manufacturing town.] The Prussians are leaving Gournay and marching to Gisors. Turning from from St. Quentin, they threaten Amiens. A force of 800 Prussians and 500 Saxons has already occupied Gisors. The Germans have also appeared at Mont Didier, where a small detachment of them was defeated by the Franco-Tireurs.

THIONVILLE AND MONTMEDY.

A telegram from Arlon, Belgium, dated last evening, says: Heavy cannonading has been heard today in the direction of Thionville. It is reported that the garrison of Montmédy have made a sortie, which resulted in the recapture of Stenay.

AFFAIRS AT RHEIMS.

The rumored disorders in Rheims are denied. The rumor and the contradiction are equally untrustworthy.

Successful Operations of Bazaine at Metz On the 7th and 8th.

TOURS, Oct. 13.—News received shows that BAZAINE'S sorties at Metz on the 7th and 8th and 10th inst., were exceedingly successful. Several Prussian regiments were cut to pieces, and a large amount of provisions and munitions captured, and that the Prussians were forced to change positions for fear of being cut apart.

The Defense of St. Quentin.

TOURS, Oct. 13.—A dispatch from St. Quentine states that the energetic defense made by the population created great enthusiasm there. Over 50,000 persons assisted in the interment of the National Guard killed in the engagement.

THE EAST.

Strasbourg During the Bombardment—Conduct of the American Consul—The Battle of the 10th, Near Metz—Another Fight at Bruyeres.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The conduct of Mr. FELIX PETARD, United States Consul at Strasbourg, the only foreign representative retained in the city during the siege, is the theme of warm eulogium in the London journals today. He not only protected all the foreign residents, but when his house and premises were burned, took them to another, in the cellars of which he sheltered and attended them, with the aid of his wife, through the danger of the bombardment and small-pox, which broke out in their midst to add to their anxieties.

THE LAST BATTLE AT METZ.

Particulars of the battle before Metz, which occurred on Friday last, the 7th inst., have just been received. The French made a sortie in force, and, after a battle, were driven back with tremendous losses. The Prussians took a great number of prisoners. The cattle in and around Metz are dying by hundreds from the rinderpest. The bodies cannot be burried quick enough to prevent epidemics. Notwithstanding the hard frosts have occurred the disease is spreading rapidly. The French fire from the fortifications of Metz continues incessantly.

ANOTHER FIGHT AT BRUYERES.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—A despatch from a French source has just been received here giving the following news: An engagement occurred on Monday, the 10th, near Bruyères, between a body of Franco-Tireurs and the Prussians. After a short conflict, the latter retired with a loss of thirty killed and wounded. The French loss is not stated.

TOURS, Oct. 13.—Gen. CAMBRIELS reports having gained a considerable advantage with his command over a force of 15,000 Prussians, near Bruyères.

New-Brisach Completely Invested by Germans.

TOURS, Oct. 13.—The Prefect of Colmar announces that the siege of New-Brisach continues. The town is completely surrounded by heavy detachments of Prussians who are well supplied with artillery. They are making enormous requisitions of supplies for their commissariat upon the surrounding country.

SIEGE OF PARIS.

Time Fixed for Opening the Bombardment—The Attack on the American Consulate—Burnside's Visits Between the Two Camps—Arder of the Defenders—Their Readiness for the Attack.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—"Lupus," the special correspondent of the NEW-YORK TIMES with the Prussian head-quarters, writes from the German side on the 9th inst., that the bombardment of Paris will positively begin between the 18th and 19th insts. This he knows from the best authority—the King's orders.

MOBBING THE UNITED STATES CONSULATE.

I heard read, this morning, memoranda from the diary of Minister WASHBURNE, sent to his wife at Brussels. They are most interesting, but as they were intended only for private perusal, I cannot give the details. One fact I may mention. He speaks of the mobbing of the American Vice-Consulate by the French, which necessitated diplomatic correspondence with M. JULES FAVRE.

NEGOTIATIONS.

Gen. BURNSIDE'S visits, back and forward, between both camps, attract attention. Where such strictness is observed, even with regard to the passage of the couriers of the embassies, this is natural. It is stated that the object of the General's last visit to JULES FAVRE was to convey to him the willingness of Count VON BISMARCK to permit the holding of the elections for members of the Constituent Assembly in the Department of the Seine.

A BOUNTIFUL SUPPLY OF EVERYTHING.

TOURS, Oct. 13.—A late message from Paris has the following comprehensive statement: "Materials for the workmen, coal and metals, food and good-will are abundant here." A Paris letter, printed in the Constitutionnel today, says the word "peace" is tabooed in Paris. Everybody is casting cannon, making mitrailleuses and constructing pontoons. Enough of the latter have been constructed to bridge the Atlantic Ocean.

LILLE, Oct. 13.—A balloon from Paris descended at Tournay today. The navigator, M. CARJOT, had much difficulty in alighting. The news from Paris is most cheering. The popular ardor is unbounded. The soldiers are anxiously awaiting the Prussian attack, and have no doubt of their ability to withstand it. Perfect order reigns everywhere. The confidence in Gen. TROCHU seems to be limitless. Everybody is quiet, firm and courageous.

BERLIN, Oct. 12—5 P. M., via LONDON, Oct. 13.—The obstacles to the conveyance and planting of the Prussian siege guns have been so far overcome that the cannonade before Paris may be momentarily expected.

L'ORLEANAIS.

Another Battle Imminent at Orleans or Chateaudun—Shelling of Orleans, an Open Town—Military Talent to be Recognized.

TOURS, Oct. 13.—No official news has been received from Orleans or Chateaudun, but it is reported that the Prussians have over 60,000 troops now at the former place. They are also in great force at Chateaudun, where a strong corps of the French Army has congregated. The general expectation has been that a battle would take place there today.

THE SHELLING OF THE CITY.

When the Prussians shelled Orleans, Bishop DUPANLOUP and the Mayor of Orleans sought the Prussian commanders and requested a cessation of the shelling, as the town was open. The attack was successful, and at 7 o'clock in the evening the Prussians entered Orleans and established a battery commanding the road to Tours.

It would seem to be the purpose of the Prussians to occupy Orleans for some time. A large force of Prussians re-entered Pithiviers and treated the inhabitants brutally, yesterday. They then marched to Saintay, twelves kilometers beyond Orleans, toward Blois. At Saintay 1,500 cavalry made requisitions on the place.

INDUCEMENTS TO ENLIST.

The Government has issued decrees for the purpose of stimulating all ranks to enter the army and encourage young talent, making appointments and advancements according to talent displayed or services rendered. The former rules stopped such advancements, but now military grades may be conferred upon persons not belonging to the regular army. These grades are to cease at the end of the war, except in cases of unusual éclat or great services rendered. It is decreed that workmen in the Government armories and arsenals are not to be forced into the military service. They must, however, form companies and drill, but so as not to interfere with their work.

Occupation of Orleans—Ten Thousand Prisoners Taken—Defense of the Line of the Loire—Anxiety at Tours for Reinforcements Sent North—The Town of Ablie Burned—Various Operations.

VERSAILLES, Oct. 12, via BERLIN and LONDON, Oct. 13.—Yesterday the French Army of the Loire were driven out of Orleans after a nine hours' fight. Orleans was subsequently stormed. The Prussians took upward of 10,000 prisoners. Their loss was small. The Bavarians participated in this engagement.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—The Prussians occupied Orleans yesterday. A French corps was encamped on the left bank of the river.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The occupation of Orleans by the Prussians is not yet confirmed, though it is certain the French have fallen back along the left bank of the river.

ANXIETY AT TOURS.

TOURS, Oct. 12—Midnight.—No news has yet been received from Orleans or Chateaudun, whither the reinforcements were sent last evening. Much anxiety is manifested, as it is known the Germans were in heavy force in that neighborhood.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—It is known that Gen. GARIBALDI has left Tours, in company with Col. FRAPOLI, for the seat of war. The exact destination has not been divulged, but it is intimated he will take command at Orleans. The people in Tours and the vicinity are reported to be rushing to arms. It is expected that large masses of fresh troops, called out by Minister GAMBETTA, will take the field within ten days. It is reported that Gen. BOURBAKI has accepted a command in Tours. A corps of Franco-Tireurs left Lyons, yesterday, for the seat of operations on the Loire. A correspondent of the London Post reports that 150 volunteers from the United States recently arrived at Tours, and met with an enthusiastic reception.

THE CHANGE OF COMMAND.

The official decree appointing Gen. AURELLS DE PALADINES to the command of the Army of the Loire in place of Gen. LA MOLTEROUGE, is published at Tours.

BURNING OF ABLIE.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The town of Ablie has been burnt according to the threat of the Prussians. The people, not regular soldiers of France, had fired at the Prussians.

OTHER OPERATIONS.

On Monday, a Prussian cavalry division drove 4,000 Mobiles across the Eure, near Cheriay. The losses of the latter were heavy. An engagement took place on the 11th, between the Prussians and French, at Messangere. The latter were defeated and compelled to abandon the place.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Eugenie and Bourbaki—Fleury at Wilhelmshoehe—Napoleon not Desirous to Return to France—Germany—M. Thiers in Florence—Acts of the New Government.

LONDON, Oct 13.—It seems that the Empress EUGENIE sent for Gen. BOURBAKI, and that her object was to propose through him conditions of peace, on the basis that Prussia should retain Alsace and Lorraine and leave the Prince Imperial under her regency to govern France. When told by BOURBAKI that nobody in France would tolerate even the presence of the Prince, the Empress burst into tears. A letter from EUGENIE to the Emperor, of which the Countess COWPER was the bearer, doubtless referred to this project.

FLEURY AND LEBOUF.

Gen. FLEURY has been permitted to rejoin NAPOLEON at Wilhelmshoehe. There is much curiosity to know what has become of Marshal LEBOUF, as nothing has been heard of him since the first series of battles around Metz.

NAPOLEON.

The Echo, of this city, doubts the story of NAPOLEON'S complicity in any conspiracy. He is too eager for his personal safety to return to France.

ALGERIA.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—It is now said the revolution in Algeria is unchecked. In the Province of Constantine the insurrents have gained some advantages, and bid the authorities defiance.

PRUSSIAN EXAGGERATIONS.

The correspondent of the Standard charges the Prussians with constant exaggeration. He writes that the number of men and the amount of material captured at Strasbourg should be reduced at least one-half from the Prussian figures.

FRANCE AND ITALY.

It is reported that Prussia desires the restoration of Nice to Italy.

FLORENCE, Oct. 13.—M. THIERS had an audience with the King today.

GENERAL TELEGRAMS.

ITALY AND ROME.

Gen. La Marmora's Proclamation to the People—Amnesty to Those who Have Evaded Military Service—Two Years Required to Make Rome the Capital.

ROME, Oct. 13.—Gen. LA MARMORA, on arriving at Rome, issued a proclamation to the people. He says the plebiscitum nobly crowns the national edifice. He hopes and believes the Pope, as the head of the Church, will exercise his rights in perfect freedom. This feeling is sacred, but the national sentiment is none the less sacred. He appeals to all to preserve order and tranquillity.

FLORENCE, Oct. 13.—The parties who have been arrested from time to time lately for attempting to evade military service have been amnestied.

Engineers say it will require at least two years to prepare Rome to serve as the Italian capital. The seat of Government will, therefore, remain at Florence indefinitely.

Dissensions in the Party of Action—Jesuits to Leave Rome.

FRANCE, Oct. 13.—Dissensions are springing up in the party of action with respect to their policy for the future. The Jesuits are preparing to leave Rome for Prussia.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

Terrific Gale on the Coast of Great Britain—Apprehended Loss of Shipping—Preparations for the Marriage of Princess Louise.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—A fearful gale prevailed here all last night, and still rages to some extent today. Advices from different points on the coast also report heavy weather. The shipping generally is refuged in the harbors. Many disasters have already been reported. The storm was particularly violent in the Mersey, and much damage was caused to the shipping at Liverpool.

QUEENSTOWN, Oct. 13.—Details of the dreadful storm which prevailed around our coasts last night are coming in rapidly. At Limerick, in Ireland, the storm was little short of a tornado. One man was blown into the floating dock and drowned; another's skull was crushed by a falling chimney. Houses were unroofed, and vessels driven ashore. The storm was very severe around the southern coasts. It will be impossible to get details for several days, but it is feared many shipwrecks have occurred.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The preliminaries of the marriage of the Princess LOUISA, fourth daughter of Queen VICTORIA, and the Marquis of LORNE, eldest son of the Duke of ARGYLE, have been arranged, with the consent of the Queen. It is considered that the possibility of the Princess succeeding to the crown is too remote to render the alliance dangerous.

Newmarket Races—The Middle Park Plate Won by Albert Victor.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Yesterday was the third day of the second October meeting at Newmarket. The chief feature was the race for the Middle Park Plate of 500 sovereigns, given by the Jockey Club; the second horse to receive 200 sovereigns. The list closed with 161 subscribers. The race was won by Mr. W. S. CARTWRIGHT'S chestnut colt Albert Victor, by Marsyas, out of the Princess of Wales. The betting before the start was twenty to one against Albert Victor.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 13.—The rinderpest is spreading rapidly throughout Belgium. Much alarm exists not only here but in Holland and Prussia.

GRENCHEN, Oct. 13.—The Ex-Queen ISABELLA, of Spain, has settled near Geneva. She has a fine residence near the lake. The Prince DE JOINVILLE is in Geneva.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 12.—An accident has detained Prince IGNATIEFF at Odessa.

ROBERT E. LEE.

Richmond in Mourning—Message of Gov. Walker to the Virginia Legislature—The General's Remains to be Buried by the State—The Collector of Savannah Orders the Flag at Full Mast—Grief in the South.

RICHMOND, Oct. 13.—Richmond presents today a scene of mourning hardly witnessed in this generation. The stores and public buildings are all closed. The bells in all parts of the city are tolling. On many doors are pictures and photographs of Gen. LEE, draped in crape, with evergreen. The citizens are standing in groups on the principal thoroughfares and talking in subdued tones of the sad event. The feeling that he ought to be buried here, at the State's expense, is universal, and the Legislature, in making this request of his family, reiterated the public desire. The City Council met this afternoon, at the call of the Mayor. Gov. WALKER sent the following Message to the General Assembly:

"It is with unaffected grief that I announce to you the painful intelligence of the death of Gen. ROBERT E. LEE at Lexington, yesterday morning. He died as he had lived, a noble example of the sublime principles and teachings of the Christian religion. He goes down to the tomb amid the lamentations of an affectionate and sorrowing people. Of exalted public and private virtue in his life and career, he filled up the full measure of our conception of a man. A stricken family, a bereaved State and an afflicted people bow with reverence and humility before this visitation of Divine Providence. It is fitting that you, the representatives of the people, should take such appropriate action as the melancholy occasion suggests, and I believe you would but give expression to the universal desire of the people should you solicit the interment of the remains upon the grounds owned by the State at Hollywood Cemetery, where hereafter they may raise a monumental shaft commemorative alike of their sincere and lasting affection for the man and their profound appreciation of his greatness and goodness."

After the reading of Gov. WALKER'S message, a joint resolution was unanimously passed expressive of the deep sorrow of both Houses at the sad event, and requesting that the body be turned over to the State for interment at Hollywood Cemetery, near this city. A joint committee, consisting of five members of the House and two of the Senate, and their presiding officers, was appointed to go to Lexington and escort the remains here, if the request be granted.

The Tobacco Association met today, and suspended its session for the day as a mark of respect to the memory of Gen. LEE. The City Council also met, and adopted a series of appropriate resolutions, and appointed a committee to act in concert with the Legislative Committee to ask that, in deference to the wishes of our people, that the remains be brought to Richmond for interment. The Committee will leave for Lexington to-morrow morning. The flags of the shipping and all public buildings, except the Custom-house, were at half-mast. All places of amusement were closed to-night, and general quiet and gloom pervades the city.

He will be buried on Saturday, Oct. 15, at 12 o'clock. The place selected for his interment is a vault beneath the College chapel, which stands in the midst of the College grounds. This was the first building he had erected after his removal to Lexington, having declared that it was proper that the first thing the College did should be to dedicate a house to the services of religion. Here he will rest, surrounded by the monuments of his latter years. The corpse was removed today from his residence to the chapel, where it will lie in state until midday on Saturday next. Today the Faculty of Washington College, the Faculty of the Virginia Military Institute and the students of Washington College held meetings, and passed appropriate resolutions of condolence and respect to the illustrious deceased, who asserted at the surrender of Appomattox Court-house that "human virtue should be equal to human calamity."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The following was received today, by Secretary BOUTWELL, from Collector ROBB, of Savannah, Ga., dated to-day:

"I have just this moment learned that the flag on the Custom-house was at half-mast for the death of Gen. LEE. It was ordered by my deputies without my knowledge. I have ordered the flag at full mast. Much public feeling is manifested at my action. Shall the flag be lowered again? Answer immediately."

In response to the above, Secretary BOUTWELL has telegraphed to Mr. ROBB approving his action.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 13.—The news of the death of Gen. LEE causes profound sorrow here. The bells will be tolled today, and some public expression of sorrow of the citizens will be made.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Oct. 13.—The intelligence of Gen. LEE'S death created a profound sensation in this community, and calls vividly to mind many associations connected with his visit here in April last. Today, flags on the shipping were generally at half-mast, also on the British and Danish Consulate. The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce adjourned today, out of respect to the memory of the dead hero, and they appointed a Committee to make arrangements for the suspension of business and the tolling of bells on the day of the funeral, and for a public meeting of the citizens to take suitable action in the matter. The universal feeling among all classes and parties here is that a great and good man has fallen.

NEW-ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—The death of Gen. LEE casts a gloom over this community. The morning papers are dressed in mourning, and flags on the shipping, both foreign and domestic, are displayed at half-mast, and many are draped in mourning. The Board of Brokers adjourned last evening out of respect to Gen. LEE, and Judge DIBBLE this morning adjourned the Eighth District Court as a tribute of respect to the deceased. In the course of his remarks, Judge DIBBLE said that his purpose was to honor a heroic and honorable citizen, who, by his bearing, had won the admiration and affection of every heart in the land. The motion to adjourn was made by JOHN H. NEW, who delivered a touching tribute to his memory. The following card has been signed by many of the most prominent merchants and business firms in the city: "We, the undersigned merchants, suggest to our fellow-citizens that all business be suspended to-morrow, (Friday,) out of respect to the memory of Gen. R. E. LEE."

SELMA, Ala., Oct. 13.—The city has been in mourning all day in honor of Gen. LEE. All business houses are closed. The church bells toiled, and a public address was delivered at the Opera-house to a great crowd, by Gen. JOHN T. MORGAN. The grief of the people is deep and universal.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 13.—Both houses of the Legislature have adopted a resolution to adjourn to-morrow, until Monday, to attend the obsequies, on Saturday, of Gen. LEE. The citizens are arranging for imposing ceremonies. Gen. JOHN B. GORDON is expected to deliver a eulogy.

Grief at Washington College—The General's Last Sickness and Death.

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 13.—This community was plunged into profound sorrow upon the announcement of the death of Gen. LEE. There was a general suspension of the duties of Washington College, the Virginia Military Institute, and the minor schools, and they will not resume again until after the final interment of the great chieftain. Every business house in the community was closed, and crape affixed to the doors, and a general expression of deep grief was visible in every face. Washington College, the College Chapel, the Virginia Military Institute, and the Episcopal Church, of which Gen. LEE was a communicant, were draped in mourning a few hours after his death. Gen. LEE had been almost entirely unconscious since Monday night last, and he expired very peacefully and quietly at 9½ o'clock Wednesday morning. He was first taken sick on Wednesday evening, Sept. 28, while just about to set down to tea, when he suddenly sank in his chair insensible. A reaction soon followed, and in the course of the next ten days he steadily improved, until it was hoped that he was out of danger, but on Monday evening he became suddenly and rapidly worse, and continued to sink until Wednesday morning. During the early part of his sickness he slept much and spoke but little, but was rational when he awoke, and always recognized those who approached him. At times his mind seemed, for a little while, to wander, and on several occasions reverted to the army. He once ordered his tent to be struck, and at another time desired that HILL should be sent for. He suffered but comparatively little pain during his whole sickness.

NEUTRALITY PROCLAMATION.

Warning to All Persons Engaged in Hostile Enterprises Against Friendly Powers—The Laws to Be Rigorously Executed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The following proclamation was issued here today:

By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, Divers evil-disposed persons have at sundry times, within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States, begun, or set on foot, or provided or prepared, the means for military expeditions or enterprises, to be carried on thence, against the territories or dominions of Powers with whom the United States are at peace, by organizing bodies pretending to have powers of Government over portions of the territories or dominions of Powers with whom the United States are at peace; or by being, or assuming to be, members of such bodies by levying or collecting money for the purpose, or for the alleged purpose, of using the same in carrying on military enterprises against such territories or dominions; by enlisting and organizing armed forces to be used against such Powers; and by fitting out and equipping and arming vessels to transport such organized armed forces, to be employed in hostilities against such Powers; and

Whereas, It is alleged, and there is reasons to apprehend that such evil-disposed persons have at sundry times within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States, violated the laws thereof by accepting and exercising commissions to serve by land or by sea against Powers with whom the United States are at peace, by enlisting themselves, or other persons, to carry on war against such Powers, by fitting out and arming vessels with intent that the same shall be employed to cruise or commit hostilities against such Powers, or by delivering commissions within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States, for such vessels, to the extent they might be employed as aforesaid; and

Whereas, Such acts are in violation of the laws of the United States, in such cases made and provided, and are done in disregard of the duties and obligations which all persons residing or being within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States, owe thereto, and are condemned by all right-minded and law-abiding citizens.

Now, therefore, I, ULYSSES S. GRANT, President of the United States of America, do hereby declare and proclaim that all persons hereafter found within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States committing any of the above-cited violations of law, or any similar violations of the sovereignty of the United States, for which punishment is provided by law, will be rigorously prosecuted therefor, and upon conviction and sentence to punishment, will not be entitled to expect or receive the clemency or the interposition to save them from the consequences of their guilt, and I enjoin upon every officer of this Government, civil and military, or naval, to use all efforts in his power to arrest for trial and punishment, every such offender against the laws providing for the performance of our sacred obligations to friendly Powers. In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this twelfth day of October, and year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy, and of the Independence of the United States of America the ninety-fifth.

(Signed,) U. S. GRANT.

By the President.

HAMILTON FISH, Secretary of State.

THE PACIFIC COAST.

Changes in Transportation Lines—Meeting of Masons—Railroad Consolidation.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—It is rumored that the North Transportation Company has transferred its interest in the Hawaiian and Australian line, including the sale of the steamer Moses Taylor, to the Overland Railroad Company. It is understood that Webb's line will be under the direction of four first-class business men, WEBB representing the ship-building and ship-owning interest, Sir GEORGE GRAY, the former Governor of New-Zealand, the English interest, and two prominent railroad men the Overland Railroad interest....The Masons organized Grand Consistory of California, met here last night and elected W. T. REYNOLDS Grand Commander-in-Chief....The Southern Pacific, San Francisco and San Jose, Santa Clara and Pagaro, and California Southern Railroad Companies, are consolidated under the name of the Southern Pacific Railroad.

THE WEST.

Homicide in Iowa—Small-Pox in Minnesota—Naturalization of Indians—Railroad Election.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—At Wilton, Iowa, on Friday last, two old and well-known citizens, named DENNIS MONAHAN and R. SARGENT, who had previously entertained hostile feelings toward each other, met on the street, in the presence of several other citizens, and after they had exchanged a few words, SARGENT struck MONAHAN, when the latter drew a knife and stabbed SARGENT, causing his death in a few hours.....Secretary BOUTWELL has notified Gov. AUSTIN that in order to prevent the spread of the small-pox in Minnesota and along the Northern boundaries, the Collector of Customs at Pembina has been instructed to refuse entry to all buffalo robes, peltries and skins arriving at that port from any infected district of the Red River country, until he is satisfied that the same can be imported without danger to the health of the community....Fifty-one Indians of the Winnebago tribe were naturalized at St. Paul yesterday. Their object is to obtain title, under the Homestead laws, in severalty, to land which they now occupy in common. One of the Indians is named DAVID TWIGGS, and is a son of the late Gen. DAVID TWIGGS, formerly of the United States Army, and later of the Confederate States Army....At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Rockford, Rock Island and St. Louis Railroad, at Rock Island, yesterday, the following persons were elected as Directors for the ensuing year: H. H. Boody, Leo Lehman, Henry Bridge, D. H. Boody, O. Daskley, of New-York; J. R. Young, of Chicago; Dr. Irberdale, of Rock Island; John Moses, of Winchester, and David Turnbull, of Monmouth. Subsequently J. R. YOUNG was elected President, and JOHN P. WHITEHEAD Secretary.

PRISON CONGRESS.

Interesting Papers and Discussions—Terms of Criminal Sentence—Capitalists in Crime and other Topics Considered.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 13.—The public interest is evidently increasing in the doings of the Prison Congress. Delegates are constantly arriving, and the number is increased from 50 to 200, among whom are two Governors, and two Ex-Governors, while there are at least twenty members who have been deputed by Governors to represent them in the Congress. The paper read in the morning was a very able one by Judge ROBERT PITMAN, of Massachusetts, on "The Terms of Sentence," the proper length of which, he said, was a matter perplexing and difficult. He thought it desirable that greater equality be secured for the same or like offenses, and suggested several means to that end. Dr. WOLFF, of Clinton Prison, New-York, read an essay on "Sanitary Science in its Application to Prisons," in which he spoke aptly and well in relation to the location of drainage, ditches, &c.

Mr. N. B. HALL, one of the most eminent of criminal Judges in England, communicated a paper on objections incident to sentences limited to specified terms. Mr. HALL contended that as it is impossible for a physician to predict whether a patient can be cured or when, so it is impossible for a Judge to foretell whether a propensity to crime can be cured, and if cured, when the consummation can be effected. He contended forcibly that the true principle of public punishment was no discharge from prison, except on satisfactory proof of reformation afforded by the convict. An exceedingly interesting discussion arose on this question, in which it clearly appeared that there was a general concurrence on the part of the Congress in the sentiment.

The first paper read in the afternoon was by Mr. E. HILL, of London, on the novel subject of criminal capitalists, meaning owners of houses used by criminals as a dwelling, or for the entertainment of receivers of stolen goods, whether by purchase or on person, and the makers of burglarious instruments. He said that crime was a craft requiring the combination of capital and labor, the same as any other craft. He thought society made a mistake in the warfare upon crime, by striking at the operatives, the thieves one by one, instead of the capitalists in a body. Rev. Mr. BYERS, of Ohio, read an essay on district prisons, or minor offenders to be controlled by the State, rather than by local authorities, the necessity for which he considered imperative.

The evening session was taken up with two papers of great depth and ability, both on the Irish prison system, one from each side of the Atlantic.

The one by Sir WALTER GRAFTON, the author of the system, and the other by T. B. SANBORN, an enthusiastic and able advocate of it. Both writers contend that in its fundamental principles the Irish system was applicable to all countries, and might be as readily introduced into the United States as into Ireland.

THE OCTOBER ELECTIONS.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Official Returns From Congressional Districts—Representative Morrell Defeated—The Fifth District Republican.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13—Afternoon.—The result in the Fifth Congressional District can only be settled by the official returns of Bucks County. The Democratic majority there ranges from 300 to 400. A report received here from the Seventeenth District announces the defeat of D. J. MORRELL, Republican, for Congress.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13—Evening.—The following are the official returns for Congress:

First District—Randall, Dem., 4,148 majority.
Second District—Creely, Ind. Rep., 925 majority.
Third District—Myers, Rep., 1,315 majority.
Fourth District—Kelley, Rep., 2,702 majority.
Fifth District—Harmer, Rep., 448 majority. A portion of Bucks County, included in the Fifth District, is not yet heard from officially.

R. M. Speer (Dem.) is undoubtedly elected to Congress from the Seventeenth District, (Huntingdon,) over D. J. Morrell, by 125 majority.

The Sixth District is probably Democratic.

Townsend (Rep.) is elected to Congress in the Seventh District by about 3,000 majority.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13.—The latest reports from the Sixteenth Congressional District make Myers' (Dem.) apparent majority 12. But it will require the official vote to determine with certainty who is elected to Congress.

The Election in Philadelphia—Full Official Returns—The City Largely Republican.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13—Evening.—The official returns of the election in this city are announced. Randall, Democrat, is elected to Congress from the First District by 5,148 majority; his majority last year, 6,337. O'Neill, Republican, Second District, 539 majority; last year, 2,630. Myers, Republican, Third District, 1,315 majority; district Democratic last year by 127 majority. Kelley, Republican, Fourth District, majority 2,703; last year, 1,859. Harmer, Republican, 448 majority. Lloyd, Republican, is elected Judge of the District Court by a majority of 84; and Paxson and Finletter, both Republicans, Judges of the Court of Common Pleas, the one by a majority of 6,826, and the other 5,274; Bann, Republican, is elected City Commissioner by 6,157 majority. Leeds, Republican, is elected Sheriff by 5,556 majority. Beatty, Republican, is elected Receiver of Taxes by 6,762 majority; Bunn, Republican, is elected Register of Wills by 3,376 majority; Titermany, Republican, is elected Clerk of the Orphans' Court, by 6,659 majority. The citizens have voted in favor of Penn-square as the site of the Public Buildings, by a majority of 12,378. The political status of the City Council will be 46 Republicans against 16 Democrats, a majority of 30 of the former. A two-thirds vote in both branches of the City Government is secured to the Republicans.

Rows and Almost a Riot in Philadelphia—A Man Shot by a Return Judge.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—The judges of the election returns met this morning, and much excitement occurred outside of the building, caused by parties who were anxious to obtain entrance. A difficulty soon occurred in reference to the returns from one of the wards, which were not in the proper form. Messrs. MANN and CASSIDAY were therefore sent for to act as counsel, and when Mr. MANN was entering several outsiders attempted to force their way in, and finally the panels of the door were broken in. One SHEA NOLAN then ran in and threw a spittoon at Mr. CRAWFORD, one of the judges of returns. The latter fired a pistol, the shot taking effect in NOLAN'S neck. The excitement growing out of the affray drew a large crowd into Chestnut-street. After the arrest of WAR LETTERS.

PROGRESS OF THE CONTEST.

New Role of Germany—The Defense of Strasbourg, Toul, Pfalsbourg, Bitsche and Metz—The Siege of Paris—Efforts of the Country at Organization.

From a Military Correspondent.

ROUEN, France, Thursday, Sept. 29, 1870.

In my last letter I stated that I had little faith in the peace negotiations then taking place between JULES FAVRE and BISMARCK. You have learned how quickly they were terminated. In military results France has gained immensely. Her population is assured exactly of its position and of what is now required. Moreover, Germany stands, before the European world at least, as having changed sides. The rôle which France played when the war opened is the rôle Germany assumes in the second act of this grand drama. There are not wanting indications that the second act may terminate well for France. No nation drops suddenly from a first-class position to the third or fourth, to which the Teuton would now force the Frank. It must be at least by degrees. Germany demands Paris by asking for Mont Valerien. She asks for ships, Strasbourg, Metz, Pfalsbourg, Alsace, Lorraine, and for the expenses of the war, which she already counts at $100,000,000 sterling. Certainly not a modest spoliation of a brave people. It would be advisable to leave France a shirt for common decency sake. France has resolved, however, that it is better to lose all, bravely facing the foe, than to yield like a coward. It is easy to talk of civilization, but the loss of life and wholesale desolation of a country is nothing in comparison to the loss of honor and territory. In the latter case there is no basis left for a future. You should be here to feel how deeply France is now imbued with this idea—and France will fight. She has done more within the last ten days for a sturdy national defense than in the whole previous two months. Sedan was a terrible lesson, but it stopped France from shouting, and set firm her teeth.

THE SURRENDER OF STRASBOURG.

The great news of the week is the surrender of Strasbourg, at 2 A. M. of the 28th inst. Four hundred and fifty-one officers, fifteen thousand men, a ruined city and the great bulwark of the French frontier of Germany are the spoils of the victors. It must be confessed that Gen. UHRICH has disappointed us somewhat, but the old Croatian, eighty years of age, perhaps did well with poor material to fight with. I cannot think, however, that it was pardonable in him to surrender, with only the crest of his works crowned by the enemy. There was still an assault required, and the breach, as yet, was but sixty feet wide. Better to have sacrificed five thousand men defending it, and given France one week more of breathing time. As it is, the surrender liberates sixty thousand troops to sweep southward, and calls for still greater exertion on the part of the defenders of the country. Strasbourg will not be classed among other than the ordinary defenses of strong fortifications in history. The approaches to it were regularly made, and the defense showed no great originality. It simply yielded at that time when the commander and his troops should have commenced to be heroic.

TOUL.

Toul has also surrendered. I cannot help admiring its defense more than that of Strasbourg, for the former was fourth class and the latter first class, as regards strength. Toul was commanded by an old cavalry officer, Major HUCK. He had two thousand Gardes Mobile under him, and two hundred other troops, including cuirassiers, gendarmes and regulars, not an artillerist among the lot. This little item tells a sad story for the management of the French Army under the Empire. That so important a point as Toul should be without a man to point a gun, must give some clue to the condition of the whole French organization that with such a flourish of trumpets appeared on the Rhine frontier to march to Berlin.

SURRENDER OF MONTMEDY.

Montmédy has also yielded. It is an important point on the Belgian frontier, and commands the railway from Sedan to Thionville and Metz.

AN IMPORTANT POSITION.

Mézières, to the north-west of Sedan, is looked upon as a very important position by the Germans. They are about to undertake its siege in form. It commands the railway between Rheims and Sedan. Its great importance to the Germans is that its possession would enable them to command a fine range of country, from which they might draw many needed supplies for their immense army around Metz. This point, like Montmedy, will, no doubt, be well defended. Thionville is showing extraordinary activity in defense. Constant sorties are made, and the Germans only gain ground at the cost of much blood.

BITSCHE AND PFALSBOURG.

Bitsche and Pfalsbourg, almost forgotten in the general wreck, are heroically defending themselves. The former, it will be remembered, was invested after the battle of Woerth. Heavy guns have been brought to bear upon it, and everything within range has been leveled with the ground. Nothing but the rocky stronghold of the defenders remains, and this still rings out its notes of defiance. It is stated that the besiegers of Pfalsbourg have requested that reinforcements be sent to them or that the siege be raised. There can be but one course for the Germans, and that is to prosecute the siege; for Pfalsbourg is the next stronghold of France west of Strasbourg, and holds a commanding position near the line of the railway that runs west to Nancy and Paris. It is now probable that reinforcements have been sent from Gen. WERDER'S army to reduce the place and aid the force which had been weakened for the anticipated assault on Strasbourg.

METZ.

Metz still shows an unwavering front. It may appear strange to many that BAZAINE makes no effort to break through the lines of the besiegers. I am much inclined to the opinion that he could do this by making a considerable sacrifice of his men; but there appears to be no merit in such an effort at present. He now holds Prince FREDERICK CHARLES around him with nearly 250,000 men, if we include the large reinforcements which have lately poured in from Germany. In other words, the fortress of Metz and the 75,000 to 100,000 men under BAZAINE, are worth to France, under this peculiar phase of the war, the same as the 250,000 Germans besieging them. This, however, is a transient value, which may quickly disappear. Its continuance depends entirely upon the quantity of supplies existing in Metz. If these are sufficient for two months, it will have been demonstrated that a few frontier forts of first-class construction are today, as they were in the time of MARLBOROUGH, VAUBAN and LE VALLIERE, of incalculable service in the defense of countries situated as are the greater number of the European States. The brilliant sorties made by BAZAINE on the 23d and 24th instant show that he has his army well in hand, and that he can yet give desperate battle before surrendering, or perhaps cut his way out. The position of Metz is very well located for this, as it commands both sides of a considerable river, and forces the enemy to occupy a very large circuit in which the communications are necessarily imperfect. A compact body of one hundred thousand men suddenly thrown against one side of the besieging lines, ought to break through. It is not, however, to the benefit of France that this be done until Metz is exhausted of provisions. As yet, these appear to be abundant. Cattle and horses are seen quietly feeding in large numbers near the fortifications, and the citizens continue their daily occupations, to all appearances as if there were not 250,000 men encircling their walls. The besiegers of Metz find it very difficult to feed such a large army. The railways of the German frontier are taxed heavily to supply war material and commissary stores. In addition to what may be required now, there is the necessity for providing for the coming Winter campaign. This will make Germany feel how difficult a problem she has in hand for solution.

THE PRUSSIAN STRATEGY.

I am among of those who believe in the wondrous strategic power of the German Generals, headed by Count VON MOLTKE. As yet they have had none but the most stupid of French fight against. Sedowa was won in 1866 by the merest good luck in the arrival of half of the German Army, as the other half was about to sound the retreat. An extra rain-storm would have spoiled the affair. In the French campaign there has been no need of strategy, only the requirements that there should be no neglect in taking advantage of French blunders. Woerth was won by superior numbers, no other way. After that the ground was clear, and the force that could be brought to bear perfectly overwhelming. He must have been a stupid General, indeed, who, with such means at his disposal, could fail to take splendid advantage of the outrageous blunder of the French Army that resulted in the capitulation of Sedan.

FRANCE OF TODAY.

But France is now stripped of her gay plumage that she flaunted in the face of Europe under the name of an army. She has now come down to the bone and sinew, and we shall see very soon whether Paris and twenty years of Napoleonism have divested France of all its glorious vigor of former days. The siege of Paris is of course the great central figure of the present phase of the war. There are today two enormous armies looking at its walls. The army of the Crown Prince of Prussia is on the south and south-west front, with head-quarters at Versailles. There, at the base of the statue of LOUIS XIV., FREDERICK WILLIAM has lately distributed medals to his brave soldiers for victories won in France. The army of the Crown Prince of Saxony occupies the east and north-east, with head-quarters at Grand Tombley. The head-quarters of King WILLIAM are at Ferrières and Lagny, on the line of the railway to Chalons. Large bodies of cavalry scour any intervals in the enormous lines of investment, and small detachments of infantry and artillery are posted at all the prominent points not occupied by the main armies. This completely cuts off all communication with the city, and renders it difficult for us to know what its internal condition may be. We know that on the lines occupied by the two main armies extensive earthworks are being thrown up, and all the preliminary operations commenced for a long siege. With all this, however, the Germans cannot commence any formidable advances until they receive heavier guns from Germany. They have no regular siege trains with them yet. Their heaviest guns are six-pounders, carrying a fifteen-pound projectile, and these are no match for the heavy guns on the outlying forts, or even the powerful ordnance that is so abundant on the whole line of bastions that encircle the city.

On the 27th inst., a most thoroughly equipped siege train consisting of twenty-seven guns, was dispatched from Spandau for the siege of Paris. They were rifled eight-inch, and threw a 150 pound projectile with fifteen pounds of powder. The siege trains which had done such good service at Strasbourg will soon reach Paris. That which threatened Toul is also on its way westward. Down from the German frontier trains are pouring in loaded with the material of war that indicate heavy work for the attack and a belief in the most desperate and prolonged resistance on the part of the French. I do not believe that Germany, nor yet any sensible man, counts on internal dissensions in Paris to force it to finish the work.

THE BESIEGERS' PLAN.

There is as yet no development of plan on the part of the besiegers. It looks more as if the armies were occupying their present positions, not for the purpose of attack, but to cut off all communication between Paris and the south and south-west of France, until the material arrives for siege purposes in regular form. As I wrote in my last, I am still of opinion that the attack, if it takes place, will come from the west and north. It is difficult to find a weaker side to Paris. The map will show that the line of the outlying forts is like a horse-shoe, with its toe south-east, and opened to the north-west. The only obstacle that can prevent it from being entered from the back, is Mont Valérien, the very work that BISMARCK asked for. This fort once disposed of, Paris is lost. It is very strong, and would no doubt cost great sacrifices and much time to capture it. If it be covered and actively occupied an army could advance against the main works of the city between Mont Valérien and St. Denis. The field-works in this interval are of recent construction, and not strong. There is no point in the line of outlying forts, excepting Mont Valérien, where the capture of a single fort would be productive of such certain results of success for the Germans. Everywhere else they would have to be attacked in pairs; and, at the same time, the other forts flanking these would require close attention. These are my principal reasons for believing that if a regular siege is undertaken, the main effort will be made at Mont Valérien or very near it, despite the loop of the Seine between it and Fort St. Denis. What takes place within the walls of the city we only know by carrier-pigeons or by balloons. It appears that the French have not entirely forgotten their war contrivances for news purposes. They invented this balloon idea in 1794, when, in consequence of information gained in this manner, they handled the Austrians so roughly after their expulsion from Liége. There is no doubt the French had two or three successes against the besiegers on the 23d and 24th insts. They drove the Germans from several strong positions and still hold them. This has given the first touch of returning confidence to France, and is worth a great victory in this respect. The large army of Gen. TROCHU will hereafter make its sorties with more effective impulse than could have been possible without some little show of minor victory. The little information we get from Paris leads to the belief that the organization for a splendid defense is being pushed forward with wonderful vigor. Every inhabitant is called to the task of doing something, and does it with that steady determination which feels that there is but one road left for France, and that is the road to victory. TROCHU shows, at least, in a general order to his army, that he means hot work and no cowardice. If his acts are but half his words, the Germans will never take Paris.

COUNTRY DISTRICTS.

In the meantime the country districts are not idle. They are making supreme efforts at organization, and are evidently gaining much ground. Within thirty days more France will have two hundred thousand additional men in the field. They may not give battle, but they will do much for Paris, and will keep any army that can be sent against them, in the present condition of affairs, very much occupied. Two months hence the Gardes Mobile will be better troops than those who fought at Woerth. Germany may yet go back to her frontier with no tangible results for her magnificent military effort, except the glory of her late victories.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Weak Points of the Capital.

Berlin (Sept. 28) Correspondence of the London Times.

On more closely inspecting the fortifications of Paris, the German Generals believe they have discovered some weak points south and west of the great capital. In the south the heights of Sceaux approach the forts to within 4,000 paces, the distance between the forts and the town itself being only between 1,000 and 2,000 paces more. This is scarcely a sufficient safeguard for the town, while it is technically certain that the forts cannot hold out for any length when once heavy guns are brought against them. That the fall of one or two of the forts would bring rich, beautiful, and pleasure-loving Paris under the effective fire of bombs, grenades, and every other description of hellish missile, need be scarcely repeated. Two score gaps in the defenses are supposed to exist on the western side, north and south of Mont Valérien. The southern gap is between Sèvres and St. Cloud, where the hills of Garches, west of the latter place, to a certain extent neutralize the fortress Mont Valérien, being almost equal in height. Still greater facilities are offered to the besieger by the unprotected ground between Courbevoie and St. Ouen. With the Seine in front, the Germans would be able to place batteries on the heights overtopping St. Denis, all the way from Gennevilliers to the road to Lille. Earthworks might be more particularly erected at Argenteuil and opposite St. Ouen, from which the works of St. Denis might be fired as in the rear, and the Quartiers St. Honoré and Rivoli be effectually bombarded, supposing the Germans after all to cross the Seine somewhere near Argenteuil, the locality would easily admit of their being protected by redoubts at La Garenne, which would prevent the Mont Valérien being assumed by the garrison of Mont Valérien. If the works of St. Denis—which, being very strong in front, were at first intended to be left on one side, but are now discovered to be more accessible in the rear—are once fired at from the latter side, they will be cut off from the town, and soon become untenable. After their occupation, regular breaching batteries might be established south of Gennevilliers and near Asnières, which the enceinte and the adjacent parts of the town would find it difficult to withstand. If the operations are proceeded with in this last-named quarter, Meudon-ire and St. Martin will be the first suburbs to fall into the hands of the attacking army.

ITALIAN ROME

Organization of a Civil Administration—The Meeting in the Coliseum—The Castle of St. Angelo—Coming Events—St. Peter's—The Clergy—Vestiges of the Attack—Aspect of the City.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ROME, Saturday, Sept. 24, 1870.

The important first step of organising a civil administration for Rome was taken yesterday. The day before, in response to a public call, not less than 10,000 of the population met in the inclosure of the Coliseum, and elected by acclamation a body of Municipal Councilors. The number is eighteen, and the Duke of SERMONETA, of one of the ancient conservative families, is President. Among the names are several others of aristocratic families, such as RUSPOLI, PIOMBINO, SFONDA-CESARINI, ODESCALCHI and PALLAVICINI. We are having at once a repetition of what was witnessed at the time possession was taken of the Provinces of the north—some of the most respectable among the leaders of society under the old order of things promptly embracing the cause of the KING. The sign is a good one; and is a new guarantee of a decorous and well-ordered conduct of affairs, with liberty less exposed to the fickle caprices of popular passions. There was a little confusion in the tumultuous shouts of so many voices in the Coliseum election; but the processional groups, with their banners, came and went without disorder. On the heights of the broken platform and arches of the great ruin, hundreds of spectators were grouped, and the scene, the actors, and the object, with associations so novel and unusual, were calculated to make a new impression. The conduct of the Romans thus far has left little to find fault with. The appeals made to their pride, prudence and self-respect have not been without effect, and it is to be expected that they will show themselves capable of enjoying liberty without abusing it, and add another proof of the fitness of Italians for self-government.

ST. ANGELO.

While national flags are flying everywhere else, the castle of St. Angelo has not yet any banner flying on its walls. It is, of course, with the rest of the strong places in possession, but from fear of an act of treachery in the form of a mine left by the Pope's garrison in this place of their pride, and the last relinquished, it has been determined not to occupy the fortress until a careful examination has been made. The work of conquest is complete, and Rome has new masters, who are of the same nationality and old friends. There has been more hugging and kissing here within a few days than would be indulged in a life-time in a cold northern country. The boys ask of the soldiers the smallest pin-feather from their plumes, to strut patriotically with in their own hats. The women are covered with tricolor cockades.

COMING EVENTS.

We are witnesses of facts and circumstances which show the odd course which events take. On the edifice of the College of the Propaganda two large American flags and one English are flying, the only colors that decorate or protect the building. This, the most august educational seat of the Catholic faith, makes appeal for safety to the two leading Protestant Powers of the world, against those brought up in the full light of the Vatican and the choicest Papal influences. Such are some of the results of a faith which has just committed the crowning folly of declaring itself infallible. The sacerdotal party is determined to learn nothing from disaster, nor will it accept reform, whether offered with generous promises of reward or forced upon it by humiliations. But the lessons of chastisement are not wasted, and the fractious child is to get rid of his obstinacy by being sent to bed without his supper.

THE VATICAN.

The great mass of the wing of the Vatican, next to St. Peter's, wears an aspect of stately sadness. The windows are all shut, and silence reigns in the courts and passages. A few Swiss guards are standing, with a pale and disconsolate look, around the half-shut outer portal. Through the length of the Colonnade of Bernini companies of sharp-shooters of the Italian Army, in their half-brigand costumes, are loitering in picturesque groups. The pots and pans of a military kitchen are scattered about, and the smells of faggot-fires and cookery is the incense which rises before the shrine of that majestic altar. Fragments of the torn garments and harness of the defeated Zouaves are blown about by the wind.

ST. PETER'S.

I went into St. Peter's. In that great room, in which more than once I have seen a crowd of fifty or sixty thousand, there was a quiet so perfect that you could make your voice heard in a whisper across the building. A single priest, at a remote altar, was saying mass without any to make responses. A few officers of the Italian Army had strolled in at the early morning hour, to look, for the first time, upon the wonders of the architecture. The acres of Mosaic and marble decoration wear a look of cold and sterile desolation. The doors of the Council Hall are shut up, who knows when again to be opened. In the neighboring palace, the Pope is pouting, surrounded with members of the Sacred College, in sullen mood. ANTONELLI, as obstinate as ever, is there, also, with a skulking consciousness of crimes committed.

THE CLERGY.

The ecclesiastics still keep themselves out of sight. In three days I have not seen in Rome more than a dozen wearing the religious garb. This general hiding is caused by fear, want of faith, and a consciousness of not deserving well from those who are now masters of the situation. It is also a protest against the new state of affairs. Not one of the corps of hireling guardians of the capital is now left in Rome. The force got together with so much effort of Catholic appeal, and outlay of Peter's pence, has melted away, and in poverty, disappointment, and sorrow, the misled young men are on way to their homes. One cannot help yielding to a feeling of pity for some of them, for they came here at the instigation of their mothers and sisters, to defend what they blindly believed to be a sacred cause. They left comfortable homes and brought money with them for their own expenses, and a few have sacrificed their lives as a proof of the sincerity of their devotion to the work to which they put their hands. At the last moment their rage and humiliation was extreme, and several brutal scenes were witnessed between them and the populace, in personal encounters, of which a number of deaths was the result. The Zouaves were more bitterly hated by the Romans than were any other soldiers in the Pope's service.

VESTIGES OF THE ATTACK.

As one examines, in strolling visits, the various localities which were the scene of the recent attack, new proofs of the fury of the onset are at every step discovered. As far away from the centre as the Pincian Hill traces of the cannonade are left. The parapet wall in many places is knocked away, and rubbish, in confused heaps, shows the resistance made by the force stationed for a few hours on that eminence. This public walk, so charming in the fine weather of Winter, when visitors are here, is not much damaged; but it is deserted, and its aspect is sad, for the wind of the dry equinoctial is sweeping clouds of dust over its grass and flower-beds, from the neglected roads. A drouth has prevailed for weeks, and the moisture of the Campagna is dried up, and the breaking up of the soil of the roads and fields by the trampling of so many armed heels has made a wide, of a drive in any direction more than the least agreeable that I ever knew.

ASPECT OF THE CITY.

The lively demonstrations in the streets of the first day or two are now over, and, except the noise of the movement of so many troops, Rome has settled down into its usual quiet. Those who have any work to do have gone back to it, and after 8 o'clock in the evening the town is as still as a country village. The question is now asked with interest, when is the KING coming to show himself to his new subjects? The visit cannot be many days or weeks delayed, and then will follow a new sensation. ANGELICO.

CURRENT NOTES.

The disease known as ship fever has appeared in an epidemic form at Eau Claire, Wis.

The corn crop of Illinois is estimated this year to have yielded upward of 250,000,000 bushels.

Mrs. POLLY DEER, of Montgomery County, Indiana, has an unmarried daughter weighing 800 pounds avoirdupois.

Rev. A. J. BRUCE, American missionary in India, has made another presentation of valuable curiosities to the Springfield Museum of Natural History.

The line of railroad running between Fort Dodge and Sioux City, Iowa, 134 miles in length, was recently taken possession of by the Illinois Central Railroad Company.

A scientific expedition, consisting of six persons, under charge of H. M. MYERS, will shortly be sent to Central America by the Lyceum of Natural History of Williams College. The expenses are to be met by subscription.

A strange man, supposed to be an escaped lunatic, who arrived by train at Lyon Brook, near Oxford, in this State, the other night, deliberately threw himself from the top of a bridge, 162 feet high, and was mangled in a horrible manner upon the rocks beneath.

The daughter of Prof. CLAIRE, of Utah, recently poisoned one who loved her, but whom she did not love, and killed herself with a dagger, in presence of the man whom she did love, because he could not believe her innocent of the crime.

An adventurous youth at Bridgeport, Ill., was carried seventy-five feet above terra firma the other day by a mammoth kite, the string of which he had tied about his body. He finally came to anchor on the top of a chimney and held fast until rescued.

The ship Charles Augusta arrived in New-Orleans, a few days since, having on board a large number of coolies, who were subsequently formed into squads and sent to several plantations in the State. Another ship-load is soon expected in port.

A Mr. J. K. FISHER, who recently returned to San Francisco from lower California, says that the gold mines of San Rafael Valley are very rich, and that to his certain knowledge, one of the proprietors had been in the habit of pounding out from one to three pounds of the precious metal daily.

St. Louis was recently excited in consequence of a report that a native of New-Orleans, resident in that city, had died of yellow fever. On investigation, it was found that death had occurred from congestive intermittent fever, which gives a yellowish hue to the skin.

A very delicate operation was recently performed upon a man thirty years of age at Springfield, Mass., for cancer of the left upper jaw. It comprised an exsection of the entire left side, and part of the right side of the jaw, together with the table of the left eye. The patient is doing well.

A fortunate beggar, ninety-one years of age, who has been known for many years about the streets of St. Louis, has fallen heir to the Caruthers estate, at Portland, Oregon, which is estimated to be worth $500,000. The original owner of the property used to be known among trappers as "Wrestling Joe."

At a recent meeting of the Medical Faculty of Baltimore, a very animated discussion arose on the subject of salt as a cure for fever and ague, but the idea of such treatment having proved effective in any well-developed case, was ridiculed by one and all. At the same time, we know of several instances in which an approaching chill has been checked by the timely application of salt to the soles of the feet.

An old miser in Michigan recently cut out the tongue of a little boy who had been attracted to his hut and saw him counting his money through a crack in the door. The father of the lad and his friends were subsequently fired upon by the miser, whom they shot and killed. In the hut was found $10,000 in gold, which has been distributed among the charitable institutions of the State.

A woman's rights woman named JONES recently traced her absconding husband to a quiet retreat near La Crosse, Wis., where she found him living in fancied security with a second wife. But instead of causing his arrest for bigamy, as hundreds of other women would have done under similar circumstances, she took a practical view of the question, and allowed him his freedom in consideration of a sum of $1,500.

A very singular story comes from Saginaw, Mich. On Sunday last the neighborhood was aroused by the report that a child named GAY had been murdered by three men, who outraged a girl of fifteen, and carried off a gun and other articles to the woods. As the prints of feet in the soft earth were those of children, it aroused the suspicion of the Coroner, who subsequently discovered that the child had been accidentally killed, and that the brother and sister had concocted the murder story to save themselves—as they thought—from the gallows.

The Judges of the Superior and Circuit Courts of Illinois have just established certain rules for proceedings in divorce cases, which are calculated to seriously diminish the revenue of the advertising "tricksters," who are commonly known as "divorce lawyers." The orders issued are as follows: "In all suits for divorce, hereafter commenced, either the bill must be signed by the respective complainants, with their own hands, or their solicitors must, before taking decree, file with the Clerk a written authority, signed by the complainants with their own hands. Defendants in chancery causes desiring to enter appearance, waive service of process, or consent to default to a decree or to a reference to take proofs, must do so by an instrument in writing, subscribed or acknowledged by such defendants in open Court, or signed by their respective solicitors."

The Maryland-Virginia Oyster War—Serious Trouble Anticipated.

The Wilmington (Del.) Commercial of the 11th inst. says: "The trouble concerning the boundary line on the oyster grounds between Maryland and Virginia is assuming serious aspects. A special dispatch from Crisfield, Somerset County, dated at 8 o'clock last evening, reports that two vessels, carrying 200 men, and fully prepared for a fight, left that place for Onancock, Va., for the purpose of recapturing the vessels recently unjustly seized by the Virginia authorities for alleged violation of the illegal treaty made by 'Commodore' DAVIDSON, of the Maryland Oyster Navy. The owners and masters of the vessels escaped from Drummondtown Jail on Thursday last, and we suppose that they are at the head of the party who are making the effort to recover the captured property. The steamer Leila, the "flagship" of the Maryland Oyster Navy, was seized, yesterday, at Baltimore, by a Deputy United States Marshal, on the charge of noncompliance with the laws of the United States requiring the boilers and hulls of all steam vessels to be inspected yearly. Bond was entered for trial before the United States District Court, and the Leila was allowed to depart yesterday afternoon."

Gen. Beauregard at New-Orleans—He Declares that He Has Not Been In France Recently.

The New-Orleans Picayune of the 9th inst. says: "Although it may shock our Northern contemporaries to announce it, we had the pleasure of meeting Gen. BEAUREGARD on the street yesterday in fine health and most excellent condition. He is not in command of the Army of Southern France. He has not volunteered in the French service. He has not been made a Marshal of the Republic. But he is here, and he is still an American citizen, and still the President of our Mexican and Carrollton Railroad Company, just as bright, active, vigorous, and important as ever. He was at Bell Time, Ehlers and Charleston, that river-like, languorous metropolis may be, he has a very intimate acquaintance with the position and duty of an American citizen, and aside from business engagements and a sense of duty, he finds our beautiful Southern metropolis too full of quiet attractions to be foregone in favor of Northern or European cities. We were glad to see him much improved and strengthened by his brief sojourn in the pure and bracing mountain atmosphere of Virginia. No one can leave us with warmer hopes for his success and happiness—none can return to us with a more cordial greeting of congratulation and welcome. In the series of returning years we hope it may long be our pleasing duty to announce to the public from time to time that their much esteemed and heroic fellow-citizen is still spared to them and still prosperous."

ASSAULT UPON AN EDITOR.

Four Prominent Citizens the Assailants—An Editor Nearly Killed—He Draws a Pistol, Wires Three Shots, and Nearly Kills a Lady by Mistake.

Mr. IVAN C. MICHELS publishes the Druggist's Price Current, a weekly trade newspaper in the interests of the drug trade, at No. 49 Cedar-street, in this City. He is also editor and proprietor of Die Laterne von New-York, a small Sunday paper, and an imitation of ROCHEFORT'S defunct Lanterne, formerly published in Belgium and distributed in France in opposition to the Napoleonic dynasty. Die Laterne, however, deals only with public institutions and prominent persons, whom it touches up with no gentle hand. A short time ago one of its articles reflected on a Mr. EDWARD RAINOR, representing himself to be an agent of the North American Fire and Life Insurance Co. Mr. RAINOR called at the office of Mr. MICHELS for the purpose of thrashing him, but did not do so; and the next issue of Die Laterne contained a leading editorial detailing the circumstances of the intended assault, and threatening "the death of a dog" to any one who might again "beard the lion in his den" in a similar manner.

There exists in this City a Co-operative Life Insurance Association known as the Hildine Bund. Its claims have been chiefly urged upon working men, each of whom pays 50c. per month, and when they die their families are promised $1,000 from the Association. The officers are elected annually, and have made some arrangement with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company whereby the latter Company assumes the responsibility of paying the policies accruing to the Hildine Bund that may become due. Mr. MICHELS charges this Association with being a confidence concern, and alleges that it cannot show a single cent of the $50,000 or $60,000 which should now be in the treasury. He says that he took a policy in the Hildine Bund himself, some time ago, but that, finding that it was a good thing, but, afterward, finding out that he had been swindled, he threw the certificate one side among his waste paper, where it lay until the other day, when he happened to take it up, and noticed for the first time on its back that he was required to pay a further loan of $10.

This enraged him, and on Tuesday afternoon of the 6th inst., he published a leading editorial article, reflecting severely upon Mr. RUDOLPH KELSOW, an agent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in particular, and upon the Hildine Bund in general.

On Monday afternoon last, about 3½ o'clock, Mr. MICHELS was seated writing at his desk at No. 49 Cedar-street. The only other person in the room was a lady, who had called on business, and who is described as young and beautiful, but whose name Mr. MICHEL and his subordinates refuse to disclose. A small boy was in an adjoining room, but with this exception there was no other person within half a block. Suddenly two gentlemen entered, Mr. BIELING, President of the Hildine Bund, and Mr. BAUMENDAHL, formerly Secretary of the Rechtsschutzverein, (German Legal Aid Society,) whose President Mr. MICHELS now is. It was afterward ascertained that two others waited outside, who are believed to be Mr. ARNECKE, who was so roughly attacked in the Laterne article, and Mr. AUERBACH, another agent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

According to affidavits drawn up and sworn to by Mr. MICHELS for the arrest of his assailants, Mr. BIELING sprang forward with the exclamation in German, "Kerling des Aesel hat!" (kill the dog,) and struck Mr. MICHELS behind the ear with a club about two feet long and three inches thick. The attack was followed up by both BIELING and BAUMENDAHL, until MICHELS was covered with blood and shockingly beaten. All four assailants are larger men than MICHELS, who was completely off his guard. He managed, however, finally, to draw his revolver from his pantaloons pocket, and snapped it twice at them without effect; the third time it went off, and the assailants ran away. The shot struck the unknown lady, who had been unable to effect her escape during the melée, making a flesh wound and frightening her almost to death. She was cared for and sent home.

Mr. MICHELS had his wounds examined by Dr. GEO. A. LATHROP, of No. 100 East Twenty-second-street, who has made an affidavit to their nature as follows:

"* * * A severe contusion of the right scapula, near the upper part, three inches in length; a contusion four inches long on the left scapula, extending toward the spine; a welt or abrasion, three inches in length, across the left arm; a wound, more than an inch long, under the right ear and back of the ear, with another mark near and below it; also a wound an inch long on the forehead, a little to the right of the centre, with contusion and tumefaction around it, showing a severe blow, which appears to have been warded off by the right arm, from which skin has been grazed over six inches in length. The blow beneath the ear might easily have been a fatal one, and that which struck the forehead would very probably have been fatal, had not the principal force of the blow been warded off by the arm."

Mr. MICHELS' friends at once took measures to have his assailants arrested. Affidavits were drawn up detailing the facts which are given in substance above, and on Tuesday afternoon Mr. BIELING was captured and taken to the Essex Market Police Court, during the midday recess, and arraigned before Justice SCOTT. He asked for an examination, but on being informed that he would have to go to jail without bail, pending the decision of the Court, concluded to waive it, and chose the Court of General Sessions as the place of trial. On ascertaining that in that case he would have to go before the Grand Jury, he changed his choice to Court of Special Sessions, and was put under bonds to answer.

The detectives are after the three other participants in the assault, and they may be arrested at any moment. Mr. JOHN H. BIELING is a printer, at No. 12 North William-street, and resides at No. 133 East Houston-street; RUDOLPH KELSOW is a cigar dealer, at No. 136 East Fourth-street. The residence of the other two is unknown. Mr. MICHELS has purchased a new revolver, to the contents of which he proposes to treat any persons who may call upon him in the future on a similar errand.

Forgery of an Order for Gold Certificates.

A forgery of an order for gold certificates was discovered yesterday afternoon. On the 11th inst., the firm of E. C. STEADMAN & Co. received an order from PHELPS, DODGE & Co., for $20,000 gold, which they immediately purchased of J. F UNDERHILL & Co., at 113¼ and received two certificates of $10,000 each. Mr. STEADMAN has been in the practice of delivering gold to the porter of PHELPS, DODGE & Co., on presentation of a written order. On Wednesday afternoon a man presented a written order purporting to be signed by W. D. PORTER, of the firm of PHELPS, DODGE & Co., in the following language: "Messrs. E. C. STEADMAN & Co., Buy ten thousand gold at market rate. W. D. PORTER. P. S.—Send $20,000 per bearer." This order was on the regular printed form, the certificates were at once paid over to the messenger, and the fact that the house had been swindled was not discovered until yesterday.

The Pilgrims' Jubilee.

To commemorate the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims, a course of four lectures will be given in the Broadway Tabernacle Church by Rev. LEONARD BACON, D. D., of New-Haven, on the Church History of the Pilgrims prior to their coming to New-England. The first lecture will be on Sunday evening next, 16th inst., at 7½ o'clock, and the subject will be the "Origin of National Churches, and the Puritans as a Party in the Church of England." This course is intended for the benefit of the general public, and the seats will be free to all, without any reservation. Dr. BACON is, probably, of all men in this country, the one best fitted to be the orator on such an occasion.

THE JOURDAN FUNERAL.

General Marks of Public Sorrow—The Services at the Cathedral—The Imposing Funeral Cortege.

All that is mortal of JOHN JOURDAN, late Superintendent of Police, was yesterday borne to its final resting place in Calvary Cemetery, attended by the force he commanded, by members of the City Government, in which he held so important a place, and by large numbers of sorrowing friends. Early in the day there were, in all parts of the City, many tokens of the general grief for the public loss. Broadway seemed shorn of its usual bustle, and the hundreds of flags at half-mast gave to the artery of the Metropolis an aspect scarcely less solemn than it wore on the day of the Farragut obsequies. At the City Hall, in Fifth-avenue, and generally along the line of march, were many signs of mourning. It was plain, from the general appearance, that a man whom the masses respected as a faithful public servant had been called from labor to rest.

The scene at the house of the deceased, where the remains had lain since Monday morning, surrounded by stricken friends and garlanded with floral tributes of love, was, yesterday morning, exceedingly solemn. At an early hour the immediate personal friends began to assemble, and the rooms were soon crowded to excess. The remains on the previous evening had been placed in an elegant rose-wood casket, and the face being exposed, hundreds took their last look at the well-known features. It was hard to recognise the full, pleasant face of JOHN JOURDAN in the wasted marbled image, lighted by the tapers which form so solemn a part of the Catholic ceremonial on such occasions. At 10¼ A. M. the corpse was borne from the house, surrounded by the pall-bearers and a guard of the Eighth Precinct, under Capt. MCDERMOTT. Attended by a large number of relatives and personal friends, it was carried through Prince-street to St. Patrick's Cathedral, where the cortège arrived at 10½ o'clock, and the celebration of the high mass and requiem was immediately begun by Archbishop MCCLOSKY, Vicar-General STARRS and assistants. Upon the conclusion of this mass, Vicar-General STARRS delivered an eulogy upon the deceased, in which he said the concourse filling the vast and solemnly decorated Cathedral was assembled to pay the last tribute to one who in life was noted for his good and noble qualities of mind and heart. Previous to his death he filled one of the highest and most important positions in the Metropolis. It was not necessary for him to add his feeble voice to the swelling notes of praise which issued from every mouth. The public Press was unanimous in its laudation of the great and good man who had passed from among us. Superintendent JOURDAN had won the esteem of all. It will be hard indeed to fill his place. Visiting him in his last illness, he was edified by his Christian submission to the will of Heaven. When the approach of death was announced, JOHN JOURDAN replied, "Well, I am resigned to the will of God." And in this spirit of truth and charity he left this earth.

Previous to the address the choral parts of the services had been rendered with fine effect, and in common with all other portions of the ceremonies were of the most impressive character.

After the conclusion of the services in the church, the remains were borne out to the hearse and the procession was formed in the following order:

Inspector Dilks—Capt. Copeland.
Grafulla's Band.
Four Platoons of Firemen under District-Engineer Sullivan.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE WAR.

Our special correspondent at the German head-quarters before Paris telegraphs, on the authority of the official orders of the King, that the bombardment of the French capital will begin between the 18th and 19th of this month. On this subject, a Berlin dispatch of the 12th inst. says that the bombardment may be momentarily expected. The telegrams from French sources continue to represent the city as fully prepared for the attack, and the ardor of the defenders at the highest degree. The occupation of Orleans is confirmed by reports from Berlin of the 11th inst. The military operations in that region seem to be confined, on the part of the French, to the strengthening of their position on the left bank of the Loire. The Prussians have burned the town of Ablie, where, they assert, the municipal authorities behaved treacherously on its first occupation, affording an opportunity to the Francs-Tireurs for a surprise. The change of General in command at Tours is confirmed, the order making the change having been published. Gen. BOURBAKI, it is said, has accepted a command there. The Postal and Telegraphic Departments of the Government have been united under one head, and the new Government has adopted a seal with emblems expressive of the new order of things. Our Rouen correspondent telegraphs that the Germans are advancing toward Amiens, occupying Gournay, and thus threatening the only communication between the western and northern portions of France. The discord between the civil and military authorities is represented to be productive, in this region, of deplorable results, among which is the scattering of 15,000 French soldiers between Rouen and Amiens, under the orders of everybody. Another dispatch says that the Germans have turned from St. Quentin and threaten Amiens, having advanced as far as Breteuil, within about fifteen miles of that city. The French are reported to have made a successful sortie from Montmédy, and reoccupied Stenay. Cannonading had been heard at Thionville all day Wednesday, according to an Arlon dispatch. The engagement of the 7th inst. near Metz resulted in the repulse of the French, who made another effort to break through the German lines, with "tremendous loss." The Prussians captured many prisoners. The cattle in the country surrounding Metz are perishing from rinderpest more rapidly than the carcases can be buried, and in consequence the disease is spreading rapidly. The fire of the French from the fortifications is incessant. The diary of Minister WASHBURNE shows that the attack of the French mob on the United States Vice-Consulate in Paris was the subject of a diplomatic correspondence between the Minister and M. FAVRE. A London dispatch says that in view of the delicate relations between Prussia and Great Britain, in consequence of the latter's alleged recent violations of neutrality, Count BERNSTORFF, the German Ambassador, will receive an indefinite leave of absence, leaving the embassy under the direction of a Charge d'Affaires.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

A terrible storm has been raging about the shores of Great Britain, doing great damage to shipping and other property, and causing loss of life. Apprehension of numerous wrecks prevails....Arrangements have been made for the marriage of Princess LOUISA, fourth daughter of Queen VICTORIA, with the Marquis of LORNE, eldest son of the Duke of ARGYLE....At the Newmarket races, yesterday, the Middle Park Plate of 500 sovereigns was won by Mr. W. S. CARTWRIGHT'S Albert Victor....The rinderpest is spreading in Belgium and Holland, and causing much alarm....Ex-Queen ISABELLA of Spain has settled at a fine residence near Geneva..... How Gov. Hoffman Cheated the New-York Bar.

The legal profession is a most patient and long-suffering body. For years, it supinely endured judicial corruption. It witnessed, without a murmur, the advent upon the Bench of the creatures of the Ring, speedily followed, as this was, by the relaxation of all wholesome rules, the ignoring of protecting precedents, and the undermining of all just principles and legal barriers against wrong.

The Ring Judges lost no time in taking advantage of this apathy of the Bar. Some lawyers were consciously, others unconsciously, bribed into silence by favorable decisions; others were given the ear of the Court and made its pets. Those made of sterner stuff were threatened at first, then punished by unfavorable decisions, and finally terrorized into a sullen and passive defensive. Then, when everything was ripe, and the legal mind was sufficiently enervated, debauched, or prostrated, the thin mask of decency was thrown off, and the race of Ring lawyers sprang up. These miserable creatures are simply a pack of open and shameless go-betweens, who undisguisedly shrug their shoulders, leer, and place their tongues in their cheeks, as they pocket the bribe under the soubriquet of a "counsel fee." The ablest men found their clients deserting them, and slipping off to these dens of judicial prostitution. Study, thought, brains, scientific analysis, even eloquence—where were they all? Swept aside and counting for naught. Was not the preparation of a laborious and able brief well understood to be a mere waste of time, its presentation a mockery and a farce? In such a condition of affairs, the legal tone naturally declined. Many lawyers abandoned their books, others their profession, while some sought refuge in the Federal Courts. The more conscientious advised arbitrations, while clients either tossed coppers with their adversaries, or purchased success with a goodly slice of their honest dues.

In the next phase of legal decadence, we find the Bar ordered to cringe to their masters of the Bench; to smile at and applaud indecent jests and coarse violence. Finally, all their rights were trampled upon and completely stamped out. Referees mutually agreed upon were peremptorily set aside, and Ring referees ordered to "hear and determine." A feeble expostulation would call forth a scornful glance from the master, accompanied with some such contemptuous remark as that "old fogies must stand aside," or the more open and truthful expression that "my friends took care of me, and I must take care of them." Men either entirely unknown or well known for their unworthiness, were appointed receivers in every conceivable case—receivers of vast properties and of almost untold sums, and that either without one particle of security, or else upon furnishing bonds for some comparatively trivial and infinitesimal amount. Occasionally some lawyer, bred in a past school, and unable to divest himself of all honorable traditions, hasarded a little protest, but he was promptly rebuked for his pains. Notorious gamblers, pugilists and other criminals were found in the Judges' private chambers, or occupying seats with them upon the Bench, while impeachment was defied upon the most accurate hypothesis of the corruption of a Ring Legislature. "Impeachment be hanged," was language frequently heard in that robbers' cave called Special Term Chambers—"I and my friends have money enough to buy up a dozen such Legislatures."

It was at this juncture that a few resolute and respectable members of the profession determined upon the organization of what is now known as "The Bar Association." They agreed to stand or fall by each other. The late lamented JAMES T. BRADY had, with his usual spirit, given them a glorious example by standing boldly up before BARNARD, and, in his very presence, deliberately interrogating one of his creatures, with a fervor and grandeur of passion never to be forgotten, respecting the connection of the Judge and the creature with several important litigations. He almost directly charged them with joint corruption. BARNARD did not dare to punish him for contempt, or to lift a finger to repress the great advocate's avalanche of indignation, but sat pale, silent, and powerless. The Bar rallied around their great leader, and it was resolved that the oldest, the strongest, and the noblest must stand up manfully against the torrent of corruption, and accept all the consequences, even to the penalty of imprisonment for contempt. The moment the nucleus of the Association was formed, war was declared upon it by the Ring, its Judges, and its endless variety of tools. At first the movement was pooh-poohed and sneered at, then it was denounced, and the judicial whip was cracked, and all concerned were threatened with ostracism. "Every member of that Association will be a marked man," said a Ring Judge. But the spirit which had been aroused was too strong to be crushed, and the Bar Association was triumphantly organized. A charter was applied for in Mr. TWEED'S last Legislature, and here was the Ring's first official opportunity. It could not very well refuse so matter-of-course a thing as an ordinary charter, so it quietly tacked on an amendment, which was a deliberate and atrocious insult flung in the face of the whole Bar of New-York, and passed the charter as amended. This amendment, in substance, made it a criminal offense for members of the Association to be guilty of fraudulent conduct, or to use against their clients the secrets confided to them professionally. This, to such men as CHARLES O'CONOR, WILLIAM M. EVARTS, HENRY NICOLL, CHARLES A. RAPELLO, JAMES EMOTT, HAMILTON W. ROBINSON, and, in fact, the élite of our community! This, to a body, the second article of whose constitution reads, that "The Association is established to maintain the honor and dignity of the profession of the law, to cultivate social intercourse among its members, and to increase its usefulness in promoting the due administration of justice."

It need scarcely be added that the Association informed Gov. HOFFMAN that if he approved of the charter it would be rejected with indignation. But the Association survived all the obloquy which was showered upon it, and soon became as solidly established as though organized under a decent charter: so much so that, after the law was passed authorizing the Governor to appoint the Judges to hold General Terms, it commenced its work in earnest by calling the members together and deliberating upon the situation. Much confidence was expressed that HOFFMAN would respect the action of the Constitutional Convention, and obey the will of the people. It was said that he was the friend of the Association, and eager to assist it in repressing judicial corruption. He had himself been a lawyer and a Judge, and all looked to him as a brother. It was with this feeling and in full confidence that the Association at once passed that series of resolutions which we publish today in another part of our paper.

A committee was immediately appointed to wait upon the Governor with these resolutions, and was composed of Messrs. CHARLES O'CONOR, HENRY NICOLL, H. PECKHAM, WILLIAM E. CURTIS and JOSEPH H. CHOATE. On the following morning the Committee telegraphed that they were about to start for Albany, but immediately received the reply that it was too late, as the appointments had been made! The order was signed late in the night on which the resolutions were passed and the Committee appointed; and the members of the Bar, upon taking up their papers next morning, discovered that they had been cheated. Of course the Governor filed, as usual, a written opinion to show how he had been "constrained" to appoint INGRAHAM, BARNARD and CARDOZO. Of course he was profuse in apologies. The political ingenu did not know that the Bar Association had met that night. His being "constrained" upon that particular night to do that particular thing was a mere coincidence—one of those "very curious coincidences," to which Mr. Weller, Jr., referred in his little anecdote explaining how, as a number of voters were being conveyed to the polls, the coach happened to upset at a particular spot on a particular day, shooting the aspiring voters out into a pond—"a very curious coincidence, indeed!" "If I had only known, gentlemen, or had had the slightest idea that your estimable body, for whom I entertain the most sincere and the most profound, &c., had acted or had the slightest wish upon the subject, you know me too well to suppose for a moment, &c." And so with his hand upon his heart, this young and ingenuous Governor bows the Bar Association out, and ushers the immaculate General Term in. What has followed we have already exhibited to our readers, but there is still more to be told.

The Pope's Temporal Deposition.

One of the great events of the past Summer—the destruction of the temporal power of the Pope, and the reduction of the Holy Father to the simple position of a High Priest—has fallen flat on this generation. Two years ago it would have been considered one of the grand apocalyptic revolutions, the accomplishment of prophecy and the heralding of the speedy coming of the new "kingdom." Preachers would have commented on it, and prophetic writers would have demonstrated its harmony with mysterious and ancient predictions. Moralists would have seen in it the final undermining of priestly power in temporal things, and that secularization of the world's religious institutions, which has been the dream of so many reformers. But the "capital of two civilizations" has been transformed into the capital of the Kingdom of Italy, and the great spiritual monarchy, which for so many centuries had its foot on the neck of Kings, has been dethroned, while the world of Europe and America have hardly noted the occurrence, or if they have, scarcely felt more excitement over it than if the Kingdom of Greece were overturned. This great revolution, and the triumphant expression of unlimited dogmatic knowledge by the Ecumenical Council, have signally failed to arouse the anticipated deep interest of mankind. As dramatic scenes, they may be said to have been failures.

The causes are not obscure. The earnest sympathy of modern peoples is not with religious leaders, their doctrines, or their organizations. Modern thought and feeling are far more called out toward political reforms and political revolutions. So stupendous a political change as has been going on this Summer, wherein the first military power of Europe has been humbled, Cæsarism or personal government has exploded, and a quiet and earnest race have taken the first place in European progress, has quite absorbed the thoughts of men, and given them little opportunity of studying the destinies of the priesthood. Events so wonderful as the overthrow and capture of NAPOLEON in a six weeks' compaign, the siege of Paris, the declaration of a republic, and the apparently threatened chaos of political parties in France, have caused the smaller fortunes and revolutions of the Popedom to be comparatively neglected. Moreover, many will recall that it is but sixty years since that the Pope was deposed and deprived of his dominions by a far more powerful potentate than VICTOR EMMANUEL, and yet in six years he was again restored. It is true that now he has his own people against him, and then his predecessors had a foreign conqueror. But in the changes which must occur during the next twenty years throughout Europe, it is not at all an improbable event that portions of the Roman or Celtic races may unite to replace the Pope on his throne, and may succeed.

The indifference of Protestants, however, to this great event may arise from a yet deeper cause. It is becoming more and more doubtful whether the deprivation of the Pope of his temporal power will much diminish his spiritual influence in distant countries. Undoubtedly in Italy, the humbling of the Head of the Church to the condition of a superior Bishop, without an army or a treasury, or any considerable territory, will lower him in the eyes of the ignorant, and lessen his power over their minds. But, in the opinion of foreigners, and even with the reformers of his own country, the fact that there is no distinctly Papal territory, with a cut-throat army, and the worst government and most corrupt administration in Europe, will really free the Pope from some of the worst reproaches cast upon him. Hitherto the American or English heretic and European reformer has said: "The Papal States are a sample of the legitimate effect of Roman Catholic principles, transferred to politics. Here you have the religious State which the Church desires to found in America and England, and everywhere else." The rapacity, illegality, corruption and tyranny of the Roman States were a perpetual and unanswerable argument against the Pope's Government. This is henceforth removed. The Pope stands before the world simply as a priest of religion and bishop of souls. He can now be the successor of the Apostles in his poverty as well as his sanctity. No political stains now rest upon him; no suspicion of princely luxury or princely oppression. He has no relation to the powers of this world. His subjects may be under republics or monarchies or empires. He rules over souls.

Such a figure, the centre of the Church's affection, freed from earthly insignia and earthly complications, supposed to be the humble object of persecution and the saintly model of sanctity, will, in our judgment, possess a far deeper influence over the Roman Catholics of all countries than did ever a petty Italian Prince, governing badly a wretched and oppressed population.

The Yellowstone Expedition.

Accounts of travel are often rather uninteresting, partly because of the lack of interest in the places visited, and partly through the defective way in which they are described. A poetic imagination may, however, invest the dreariest spots with attraction, and the loveliest nooks of earth may seem poor and arid if sketched with a dullard's pencil. But, perhaps, the most graphic and effective descriptions of actual scenery come from those "plain people," as Mr. LINCOLN would have called them, who, aiming at no graces of rhetoric, are unconsciously eloquent by the force of simplicity.

A record of the Yellowstone Exploring Expedition, which has just happened to reach us, is distinguished by this graphic directness and unpretending eloquence. It is partial and fragmentary, but it reads like the realization of a child's fairy tale. We mean no disparagement, but the reverse, of the Notes of the Surveyor-General of Montana, in saying this. No unstudied description that we have read of the internal scenery of the American Continent, surpasses his notes in any particular. The country he had to describe certainly offers great advantages. But it is much to his credit that he has performed the task in so unpretending a manner. Where temptation to fall into the besetting sins of tourists is great, the merit of avoiding them is equally great. The Yellowstone expedition left Fort Ellis on the 23d of August. Through the Boseman Pass it made its way to Trail Creek, from which a view was had of the mountains beyond the Yellowstone. Soon after it reached the mouth of Gardiner River, which enters the Yellowstone just below what is called the Grand Cañon. Here the explorers pitched their camp amid magnificent scenery. They found abundance of game and trout, hot springs of five or six different kinds, including sulphur and iron, and basaltic columns of enormous size, that constantly suggested some mighty effort at human architecture. But finer and more imposing still they found the river—the Gardiner, just before reaching the Yellowstone—running between a procession of sharp pinnacles, looking like some noble old castle, dismantled and shivered with years, but still erect and defiant. Suddenly, and between two of these turrets, the river makes a sheer leap into the air—a leap of 110 measured feet—and then flows peacefully into the Yellowstone. This cataract, which has been named the Tower Fall, must be in form, color and surroundings one of the most glorious objects on the American Continent.

Beyond this, from an elevated peak, a panorama was obtained of vast extent and beauty. Far in the distance were seen the Yellowstone Lake, the jagged summits of the Wind River, Big Horn and Lower Yellowstone ranges of mountains, while still further could be discerned the tops of the Tetons. Soon the party came upon huge boiling springs, giving forth volumes of steam, and their sides encrusted with sulphur. These, with questionable taste, were named "Hell-broth Springs," and a gorge hard by, where a mountain stream had ages back torn its way through a rock of lava, was naturally called the "Devil's Den." More picturesque cascades were afterward found, several of them exceeding one hundred feet in height, and the water possessing a beautiful emerald green tint, to which Mr. WASHBURNE often refers. But beautiful is hardly the word for the Lower Falls of the Yellowstone. Here the height more than doubles Niagara. The water of the river is flung in one sheet down a perpendicular wall of three hundred and fifty feet; and the mingling of green water and white spray with the rainbow tints above is spoken of as gorgeous beyond description. Not far away there is something more amazing still. There is a cañon, or ravine, which, a thousand feet deep at the Lower Falls, becomes nearly double that depth further on. Jutting obliquely over this cañon frowns a rock, itself two hundred feet high, on the top of which is an eagle's nest. Close by, a little rivulet comes chasing down past this rock, and leaps squarely into the cañon. It is dashed into mist long before it can reach the bottom.

There are many other strange things in the Yellowstone Basin which would take much space to describe. There are extinct volcanoes and hills made of solid brimstone; there is a large sulphuric spring, twenty feet by twelve, filled with boiling water, which is constantly thrown up by the effervescence high into the air; there is a spot covered with springs of nearly every color—yellow, green, blue and pink; there is another spring of alum water, not in solution only, but crystallized, and there are geysers of mud and steam ceaselessly active that must exceed in size and power those of Iceland. One of the number, according to Mr. WASHBURNE, throws mud three hundred feet high, and another spouts only at intervals, becoming perfectly still, and anon throwing up a volume of boiling rubbish to a great altitude. We have said that this record reads like a fairy tale, and readers will by this time agree with us. Its official character, however, may be added to the evidence of that simplicity of style already commended as earnest of the trustworthiness of the narrative. Rarely do descriptions of nature come to our hands so unaffectedly expressed, and yet so gilded with true romance.

We should like to know from Mr. TWEED whether he is satisfied with the work which the World is doing for him. If he is, we can only say that it does not take much to please him. When the World was attacking him, it did it with a vigor which almost led to the belief that the writer's heart was in his task—but his defense is quite a different matter. Mr. TWEED himself must see that the World has done him considerably more harm than good. In the first place, its blundering course has only led to the revival and republication of all the damaging articles published a few months ago against Mr. TWEED, in the very same paper. It has tried to bully other journals, but has only succeeded in aggravating the attacks upon the infamous "Ring," while putting itself in a position which must shock those who stood by it last Spring. This comes of subsidizing newspapers. TWEED thought to silence the Press by luring the World. What has he made by his bargain? A newspaper is only influential so long as it is known to be perfectly independent—a truth which TWEED is now finding out to his cost, in more ways than one.

By some accident, yesterday, "the MONTALAND" did not march with JAMES FISK, Jr., at the head of the Ninth Regiment. She will certainly do so when next New-England regiments accept the hospitality of the man who has conspired with others to cheat widows and orphans out of their property. Mr. TWEED will also join in the procession, with a bag of money filched from tax-payers in one hand and his famous China punch-bowl in the other—and a deputation from the World office running by his side to black his boots, or pick his pockets, just as opportunity may seem to require.

The obsequies of Superintendent JOURDAN have been worthy of the man whose remains they were intended to honor. We do not specially allude to the merely official and professional ranks of the mourners, far less do we attach any meaning, becoming the occasion, to the presence of men to whose nefarious schemes his resolute adherence to the claims of duty had become a perpetual obstacle. The evidences of spontaneous and heartfelt respect for the deceased, were to be found in the efforts made by private citizens to express their mournful regret at his death. The business community of this City are conscious of the need of having a man as Superintendent of our Police force, who will not allow his crusade against the avowed enemies of society, to be interfered with by the cognate rascality which robs in high places. In Superintendent JOURDAN they found such a man, and his loss was regretted accordingly.

The TIMES, in an editorial article, yesterday, took occasion to warn loyal Republicans of this City of an infamous plot, then under consideration, for the out-and-out sale and delivery of their party into the hands of Tammany Hall. It now appears that the warning did not come a moment too soon. The meeting at which this conspiracy will be pressed toward success, and carried out, if possible, has already been called. The advertisement appears in another column, summoning members of the Committee to assemble to-morrow (Saturday) evening, "to take action with reference to the ratification meeting and call for primaries," &c. This means nothing less than an attempt to effect the entire overthrow of last Monday's work, and the recovery of the ground then lost by Tammany Hall. The danger is imminent, and every true Republican should do his utmost, and that speedily, to avert it. Let no mercy be shown to traitors in the camp!

Outside of the environs of Paris the operations of the Prussians in France form three main divisions. In the east the bulk of the forces lately employed against Strasbourg, reinforced probably by later levies from Germany, seem to be advancing in a south-westerly direction along the valley of the Doubs, whence at its junction with the Saone they can march in force upon Lyons, the second in importance and population of French cities. In central France, due south of Paris, another army is being moved along the valley of the Loire, which the capture of Orleans permits them, practically, to command. In the north-west a less numerous body of troops have lately threatened St. Quentin, and are now advancing toward Amiens. These are evidently acting in concert with a strong detachment of cavalry, whose movements are being directed along the railroad line connecting Amiens and Rouen, and joining both with Paris. Under all these divided operations may be discerned the hand of the master tactician. Each of the towns named is a centre of population and a rallying point of resistance, and their gradual isolation is simply the closing of a deadly grasp around a vital organ of the State.

Gov. HOFFMAN has instructed his Private Secretary to decline Gen. WOODFORD'S challenge to meet him in a public discussion of the issues of the canvass. He probably thinks the public has forgotten how he sent a similar challenge to Gov. FENTON two years ago. As in the case of the Erie bill and the General Term appointments, we are furnished with written reasons why what was proper then is entirely out of place now. The fact that Gov. FENTON was not a formidable antagonist on the stump, and that Gen. WOODFORD is, had, of course, nothing to do with the change in his views. But the public had a right to expect that he would, at least, have the courtesy to answer Gen. WOODFORD'S note in person. Whatever else might be said of Gov. HOFFMAN, he has had the reputation of possessing at least the manners of a gentleman. But it seems he is fast losing even that distinction. The valet will ape the master, and Gov. HOFFMAN'S manners will soon be as bad as FISK'S and TWEED'S.

The advertising columns of two or three morning newspapers contain a list of five hundred names, purporting to be members of the Bar of this City, who unite in asking MAT. BRENNAN to be a candidate for Sheriff. Considering that BRENNAN has already resigned the office of Police Commissioner for the avowed purpose of running for Sheriff, it would seem like a waste of time and money for members of the Bar to advertise themselves as urging him to be a candidate. In addition to the list of five hundred names published, the card winds up with the words, "and 2,800 others." Now the lawyer's Diary, which contains a list of all the lawyers in New-York, including many who are not in practice, shows that there are less than two thousand actual members of the Bar in this City. As BRENNAN proposes to be the Tammany candidate, we suppose this is to be set down as a specimen of Tammany repeating. The next thing to be done is for Mayor HALL to re-district the lawyers, so that the five hundred, after casting their own votes for BRENNAN, can put in ballots for the "2,800 others" without being detected.

To complicate the existing situation still further, the French have a revolution in Algeria upon their hands. Taking advantage of the withdrawal of the main portion of troops intrusted with the preservation of order, the Arabs have evidently seized the opportunity of raising once more the standard of independence. The Province of Constantine, in which this end has, practically, been attained, is the largest of the three into which the colony is divided, containing rather over one and a half millions, or about one-half of the entire population

Mayor HALL entertained the Tammany Hall General Committee, last evening, with a speech, in which he revived the stale sophistry that because this City did not poll as large an aggregate vote in proportion to its population in 1868, as some of the rural counties did, ergo there could not have been any repeating or false counting. The same kind of reasoning would prove that because the value of property in New-York County still continues greater in proportion to its population than in Franklin County, therefore Boss TWEED, in appropriating to himself ten millions of dollars of the people's money, had not taken all he was entitled to. The reasons why this City, with all its frauds on the ballot, still shows a smaller ratio of votes to population than the rural districts, have often been stated, and are patent to every one. The proof of election frauds in this City rests on facts, not on inferential reasoning or comparisons. When we find the Tenth District of the Sixth Ward polling more votes than there are men, women and children in it, we know there has been fraud, without comparing the aggregate vote of New-York County with that of Cattaraugus. When Mayor HALL was first nominated to his present office by the Ring, PETER B. SWEENY said to a friend who demurred to the selection of an old Know-nothing to represent Tammany Hall: "Well, now, I rather like HALL; he is a very useful man to us; he is always ready to make a speech on any occasion, and will always make any kind of a speech we tell him to." A man who can do that must not always be expected to talk long.

CAMBRIA AND SAPPHO.

The Race Yesterday—The Sappho Comes in Forty-four Minutes Ahead—The Race Sailed in Seven and a Half Hours.

The match between the Cambria and Sappho took place yesterday, outside Sandy Hook light-ship. The Sappho came in first, but does not win the $250 cup, as the race was limited to five and a half hours, and they were over seven hours completing the distance.

The Sappho and Cambria ran down to the light-ship, and got ready for the race, and at 11:25 the light-ship lowered its flag as a signal for the yachts to start. The Sappho immediately went about and ran up in the direction of the light-ship, and before arriving there let off sheet, and booming out her foresail, started off on a south-easterly course, following the trail of the stake boat. The Sappho passed the light-ship at 11:27, and the Cambria adopting the same tactics at 11:30. Both yachts had their big top sails up, and their fore canvas hung idle, as the main and fore sail swallowed all the wind. The wind was not so fresh as in the morning, but sufficient to send the yachts along about seven knots an hour. There was a pretty heavy sea outside, pitching the yachts about considerably. The Cambria gained slowly but stadily on the Sappho from the start, and after they had run about eight knots, was within half the distance that originally separated them. The Sappho then began to move ahead again, and opened the gap between them. Sappho rounded the stake-boat at 2:47, followed by the Cambria at 2:49½, the latter having gained one minute

POLITICAL.

Meeting of the Tammany General Committee.

PREPARING THE "SLATES."

Arrangements for Holding the Primary Elections and Conventions.

Addresses by Hon. Richard O'Gorman and Hon. A. Oakey Hall.

The Principles of the Party Fully Defined.

A meeting of the Democratic General Committee was held last evening at Tammany Hall, which was well filled by a very orderly assemblage, who during the addresses of Hons. RICHARD O'GORMAN and A. OAKEY HALL, were very enthusiastic. Previous to the organization of the meeting Mayor HALL came forward and read a dispatch which he had cut from a Republican evening paper, in reference to the Indiana election. The dispatch purported to be from Senator MORTON to Secretary BOUTWELL, and announced that the Democratic State ticket had been elected in Indiana by 2,000 majority, and that the Legislature was still in doubt. Commenting upon the dispatch, Mayor HALL said: "If the Legislature is still in doubt, after two days' counting, it will be Democratic." The audience cheered enthusiastically. The reader will see that by removing a comma from the above sentence a good joke will be perpetrated on the Mayor. The sentence will then read: "If the Legislature is still in doubt, after two days' counting it will be Democratic."

After some little delay, Mr. TWEED took the chair, and organized the meeting with a few remarks, calling attention to the objects of the assemblage, as set forth in the resolutions, and remarking that it was hardly necessary in this City to go through such a formality, but it was the custom of the party, and would therefore be observed. He then announced the following Committee on Naturalization:

The following resolutions were then adopted:

Resolved, That the Democratic Republican Electors of the City and County of New-York, friendly to regular nominations and the usages of the party, are requested to attend a primary election, to be held in their respective wards, on Monday, Oct. 17 inst., between the hours of 6 and 7 P. M. for the election of delegates to a City and County Convention, to nominate candidates for the offices of Mayor, Sheriff, County Clerk and three Coroners.

Also, for the election of delegates to Congressional Conventions in the districts of which their wards respectively form a part.

Also, for the election of delegates to Assembly Conventions in their respective districts.

Also, for the election of delegates to Ward Conventions to nominate School Trustees.

Each Ward shall be entitled to elect to said City and County Convention, and to the Congressional Convention, in which it is entitled to representation, the same number of delegates that it has members of this General Committee.

The said County Convention shall meet in Tammany Hall on Wednesday, 19th inst., at 7½ P. M., and shall be called to order, according to usage, by the Chairman of the General Committee.

The said Congressional Conventions shall meet on Thursday, Oct. 20, inst., at 7½ o'clock P. M., at places to be hereafter named.

The Ward School Conventions to nominate Trustees shall consist of not less than nine delegates from each Ward, and shall meet on Friday, Oct. 2, inst., at places to be hereafter named.

The Assembly Conventions shall meet on Monday, Oct. 24, inst., at 7½ o'clock P. M., at the places to be hereafter designated.

The number of delegates to be elected to the respective Conventions to nominate members of Assembly shall be, according to previous appointment, as follows:

First Ward—Eleven delegates to the First District.
Second Ward—Three delegates to the First District.
Third Ward—Three delegates to the First District.
Fourth Ward—Seven delegates to the Second District.
Fifth Ward—Eleven delegates to the First District.
Sixth Ward—Seven delegates to the Second District and five delegates to the Third District.
Seventh Ward—Not less than nine delegates to the Fourth District.
Eighth Ward—Thirteen delegates to the Fifth District.
Ninth Ward—Two delegates to the Fifth District, four delegates to the Seventh District, and not less than nine delegates to the Ninth District.
Tenth Ward—Eleven delegates to the Eighth District.
Eleventh Ward—Eight delegates to the Eighth District, and not less than nine delegates to the Twelfth District.
Twelfth Ward—Ten delegates to the Nineteenth District, and nine delegates to the Twenty-first District.
Thirteenth Ward—Not less than nine delegates to the Sixth District.
Fourteenth Ward—Nine delegates to the Third District.
Fifteenth Ward—One delegate to the Fifth District, and eight to the Seventh District.
Sixteenth Ward—One delegate to the Seventh District, two delegates to the Ninth District, and not less than nine delegates to the Thirteenth District.
Seventeenth Ward—Three delegates to the Eighth District, not less than nine delegates to the Tenth District, and not less than nine delegates to the Fourteenth District.
Eighteenth Ward—Four delegates to the Eleventh District, and not less than nine delegates to the Sixteenth District.
Nineteenth Ward—One delegate to the Nineteenth District, not less than nine delegates to the Twentieth District, and nine delegates to the Twenty-first District.
Twentieth Ward—Six delegates to the Eleventh District, and not less than nine delegates to the Fifteenth District.
Twenty-first Ward—Three delegates to the Eleventh District, and not less than nine delegates to the Eighteenth District.
Twenty-second Ward—Not less than nine delegates to the Seventeenth District, and four delegates to the Nineteenth District.

In any Congressional district formed of two entire Wards, the votes of one Ward alone shall not be sufficient to nominate, but it shall be necessary to have at least one vote from the other Ward to make such nomination, so that the two Wards shall be represented therein.

The members of the General Committee in the respective Wards shall select the candidates to be presented for the offices of inspectors of elections.

Resolved, That the elections be held in the several Wards at the places and under the direction of the inspectors hereafter named, the certificate of a majority of whom shall be final and conclusive evidence of the election of delegates from such Ward.

A recess of ten minutes was taken, in order to designate the place for the holding of the Convention, &c., after which the Committee reassembled. The following resolution was presented by Hon. RICHARD O. GORMAN.

Resolved, That the State and County nominations be ratified on the evening of Thursday, Oct. 27, by a mass-meeting of the Democracy of the City and County of New-York at Tammany Hall, and in and around Union-square and Fourteenth-street, and by processions from the respective Wards; that such demonstration be under the direction of a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of one from each Ward, of which DOUGLAS TAYLOR shall be Chairman; and that the Ward making the best display in proportion to its vote shall be presented with a prize banner costing not less than $1,000, to be awarded by the said Committee of Arrangements.

After the formal resolution had been adopted, the Chairman asked what was the further pleasure of the Committee, when, in response to loud calls, Mr. O'GORMAN came forward.

SPEECH OF HON. RICHARD O'GORMAN.

Mr. O'GORMAN said: I have some reason to believe that the procession alluded to will make an important part of the demonstration, and I am informed that an invitation will be extended to a gentleman to review that procession on the night in question. He has often reviewed Democratic processions before, when they marched with arms in their hands, for what they thought the defense of the Constitution—a man—Gen. GEORGE B. MCCLELLAN. [Great applause.] And now, Mr. Chairman, perhaps I have performed my whole duty in presenting to you the resolution that I have just read. But it has seemed to me that the time was not inappropriate for a word or two on another subject, if your meeting will kindly oblige me with leave to say it. [Applause.] Fellow-citizens and fellow-Democrats, the Government of the United States must necessarily be a Government of parties. Parties are the exponents and representatives of the great ideas that move society. Parties advocate these. From the collision of parties the great mass of the people are able to test the propriety of principles and polices. And when the conflicts of parties are kept within due bounds, when they appeal to the reason and common sense of society, society is always the gainer. But when parties, descending from this high position, become the mere vehicle of vituperation and personal abuse, then all society is degraded; and in the heat and storm of passion the warnings of reason are lost sight of. Fellow-citizens, there was a time in the history of the country, many years ago—in the year 1817—when, for a while, party warfare seems to have lost its acrimony; it was called the era of good reeling; there was a Democratic President at the head of the nation—President MONROE. The war with England was ended; and many of the painful scenes of the war the American people, with their instinctive statesmanship and common sense, elected to forgive and to forget. The Hartford Convention and the contemplated treason of the New-England States were also forgiven and forgotten; and all parties and all political men turned their attention to the real interests, the domestic concerns, the hopes and prosperity of the whole nation. [Applause.] Fellow-citizens, we had a civil war; five years ago it closed. Is not this a time when there ought to be among all parties an era of good feeling? Is not this a time when the various passions raised by the war should be forgotten and cast aside forever? Is not this a time when we should all of us mutually forgive and forget all that should be forgiven and should be forgotten in the struggle that has gone by? And is it not shameful to find that there is a party in the United States, who, unwilling to discuss great questions on the plain field of reason and common sense and dignified argument, are willing to commence in this year of grace, 1870, a political campaign with the same ferocity, the same tone of vituperation, the same personal abuse, that disgraced the conflicts in the year of the war, 1861. [Applause.] That is the tone which has been adopted by the Republican Party. That is the tone which has been adopted by the standard-bearers of the Republican Party in the present political campaign. Here is our City of New-York—this great City—is it not the perpetual subject of Radical abuse in every Radical organ from one end of the United States to the other? [Applause.] Has it not been their persistent effort to make it appear to be the centre of all human iniquity? And yet these men, this know New-York, or could know it, or ought to know it, should know that it is a great City—if great in vice, greater still in humanity and virtue. [Enthusiastic applause.] They ought to know that for every sin of New-York there are a hundred benefactions, which arise to heaven to plead for mercy and forgiveness. [Applause.] They ought to know that if ever a community of men had an eye for pity, and a hand "open as day to melting charity," it is good, this great City of New-York—this City which we all love and honor. [Applause.] Then again, our Government, the Democratic Government of this Democratic City of New-York, that is made the mark for defamation and abuse. But even Sirs, if, with all its alleged vices, the City of New-York had been other than a Democratic city, that one thing in the eyes of the Radicals would cause every other sin to be easily forgiven. But the one sin that never can be forgiven is that it is a Democratic city. That is an insuperable fault in their eyes. It is a great virtue in our eyes. [Applause.] And will be its great virtue in the future that will come and judge us all. [Applause.] And our Governor, HOFFMAN, a gentleman who for two years has lived and moved in the eyes of the public, and whose conduct has been every day open to public scrutiny,—this man of a rare class of men; with a character sober and steady, a man finely balanced, incapable of wrong, and scarcely likely even to fall into political or private error—this man, emphatically a safe man, a man in whose hands great interests of the State, aye, or of the nation, will be safe. [Applause.] Against this man, after the severest scrutiny, the Republican organs have discovered a fancied error. Only one, mind! And in regard to this, they keep on hammer! hammer! on the principle of those mischievous boys playing in the gutters, who keep pelting plenty of mud, feeling sure that some of it will stick. Gov. HOFFMAN, they say, didn't veto what is called "the Erie bill"—a bill unprecedented, as our Republican friends would have us believe, in its enormity. Now, what is the fact? First, the bill they refer to was not an Erie bill at all—that is, it was not a special bill. It was a bill affecting three railroads—the Erie, the Hudson River, the New-York Central, and the Erie. It was not a bill unprecedented in its character. It was a bill framed in precisely the same parasecology, for precisely the same purpose, and with precisely the same effect as bills passed in Pennsylvania and Illinois, and, I think, in Indiana, and precisely the same as two bills which had been passed in England for the same purposes. Its object, on the face, was a good object. Its object was to provide that the directors of all those companies should not all go out of office at one time, but that there should be such a rotation as that always some out of the old directors should be retained, and thus, as it were, the traditions of the corporate management be continued. Now, the bill was proposed and passed in a Republican Legislature. [Applause.] It was proposed by a Republican Senator, CHAPMAN. It was referred to the Railroad Committee, presided over by a Republican Senator, CAMPBELL; it was recommended by that Committee. It was passed by a Republican Senate, with only one dissentient vote. There was no objection to the bill, and it came into the hands of the Governor by almost the unanimous desire of the Legislature of the State of New-York. And if, under these circumstances, he had undertaken to veto that bill, without cause—that bill almost the unanimous result of the Legislature of the State of which he was the Governor—if he had vetoed that bill he would have committed a wrong act, and left himself open to the honest objection of the great Democratic Party, and of all reasonable men. [Applause.] Now that is the story of that one fault of Gov. HOFFMAN. That is the one crime they lay against his charge. If it is no crime, he did perfectly right; and if he had done otherwise he would have committed a sin against republican institutions, and he would have deserved to be so far condemned. But Gov. HOFFMAN is "the slave of the New-York Ring." It is his great fault. He would be honest enough himself, but he is "the slave of a dishonest Ring." Now, fellow-citizens, what is the meaning of this word "Ring?" A Ring I take to be a collection of men united for some common object. If the object be bad, it is a bad Ring—if good, it is a good Ring. Now, I will tell you what I mean by a bad Ring. There is the Whisky Ring, and the Land-grabbing Ring, and the Gold Ring, and the Bessemer-steel Ring, and all the other Rings in which the Republicans in Congress have been disporting themselves. These are indeed "bad Rings," for they are conspiracies to plunder and defraud and dishonor the American people. These are specimens of bad Rings—conspiracies of the few against the many, and these ought to be denounced as political crimes. But if the Democratic Party means a body of men in the City of New-York directing, organizing, guiding and governing the Democratic Party in this City, and governing it so that the effect and history of the party expresses strong success, then I say that "Ring" is a necessity; it is a good "Ring," and I, for one, am in favor of it. [Enthusiastic applause.] No body or party can exist without a government—call it a "Ring," if you like to. It means simply some directing, advisory, governing power. A party to be successful must be organized like an army. All the men in the army cannot be Generals. There must be a few leaders, and the rest, if they are wise and mean to make it a success, must obey. And when men tell me that they are Democrats, and yet are determined to break up the Tammany Ring, I stop and ask "What do they mean?" Don't they mean, if they succeed in breaking up the present Ring, to be themselves its successors, and form a Ring in place of the men they have expelled? That is the meaning of it, my friends of the Young Democracy. I know that many of them have for me the kindest feeling, and I deeply regret to see them taking what I regard as a mischievous course for the party—a fatal course for themselves. But if the question is to be fairly put before the people—if instead of the present Ring, composed, if you will, of Mr. TWEED, Mr. SWEENY and Mr. HALL—if, instead of that, there is to be a Ring composed of any other men I have ever heard named in what is called the "Young Democratic Party," I for one will stand by the old Ring, because I believe it has more sagacity, more power, more intelligence, more political skill, and more promise of success than the other. [Applause.] You see, citizens, I am talking as I endeavor to think, practically, about those things. I say as a citizen I am in favor of continuing the party government we have. But when I come to look at it as a Democrat, then my feelings are even stronger still. Whenever you find a number of men claiming to be Democrats, claiming to seek office in this City, the favored friends and allies of the Republican Party, beware of them, for it looks very like as if they were deserters. [Applause.] And when I find any party, or body of men, calling themselves Democratic, have solemnly resolved to help the Republican Party in enforcing the late Election laws of Congress, the laws that but a few days ago nearly brought about a bloody riot in Philadelphia—that law which we Democrats are now threatened with, in the City of New-York—a law in itself unconstitutional and despotic—a law in the State of New-York unnecessary, because last session we passed a sufficient law for the purpose of securing purity of election—law whose only object is to defeat by intimidation, because they could not by fraud defeat the Democratic Party in this City—when I find Democrats openly, solemnly promising their aid to a law like that, all I can say to them is let them beware; let them take no such step, for they will never receive the forgiveness of the honest and free Democratic Party. And now, fellow-citizens, in all the Republican organs we read accounts of this corrupt Ring in the City of New-York. Last session it received an immense acquisition of power. The Legislature placed in the hands of the corrupt City of New-York the power of making a number of appointments. Now, it this Ring were corrupt, it would make corrupt appointments for corrupt purposes. Who did the Ring appoint? First, let me take the Department of Docks. The docks are the first thing a stranger sees in the City, and the first thing of which a citizen of New-York in times past ought to have been ashamed. They have been in a disgraceful condition. An immense quantity of money must be spent upon them; an immense number of men must be employed upon them. This was a great thing for a corrupt Ring to have in their hands. Now, who did the Mayor HALL appoint in this department? He appointed WILLIAM WOOD—my old friend, a Scotchman, a man of enlightened intellect, of high character, a banker, known in New-York, throughout America, and in Europe, and respected wherever he is known; Mr. AGNEW, a merchant, than whom there is none more honored in the City of New-York; WILSON G. HUNT—what can be said against him? Did any man ever attach to that honored name the slightest cloud of dishonor? Who is Chief Engineer of the Department of Docks? A man of a high reputation in his profession. A man who has filled the highest offices with honor and dignity. A soldier, who, in all the heat of civil war, never forgot that he was a citizen, a gentleman and a Christian—GEO. B. MCCLELLAN. [Applause.] Who is the disbursing officer of this corrupt Department? JACOB A. WESTERVELT, an old Knickerbocker; once a Mayor of New-York, an old ship-builder, a man in whom every body confides. Is it from men like these that corruption is to be expected? Is it in the hands of men like these that a corrupt Ring would place power? Show me men in all the City of New-York more fit for the position these gentlemen have been placed in than these men that I have named, if you can. Let me not forget another gentleman also in that Commission. You remember that there existed in New-York an Association composed of various gentlemen who thought they had the knowledge and the power to remodel and improve the institutions of this City, called the Citizens' Association. If the object of the Mayor had been to defraud, would he have appointed on that Board the very gentleman of this body of men whose business it was to spy out the slightest instance of a disuse of the public money? So much for the Department of Docks.

Now we go to the Department of Parks. You remember when the change was made that there was a melancholy outcry in all the Republican papers of Farewell to the Parks! Farewell to the trees! Farewell to all the beauty that had entranced strangers and delighted citizens in this City of ours! Henceforth, through all the parks will range, day and night, Democratic orgies, wild disorder, terrible confusion! Well, the change took place six months ago; and the parks still exist. All through this Summer, the sun shone upon no fairer or lovelier spot. The Park is there—as bright, as beautiful, as well kept as ever. Nay more. The new régime, appointed by the Ring Mayor of New-York, took this one step, for which I honor and thank them as a citizen. They carried the beauties of the Central Park down into the squares of the old City, which were the only breathing places left for the poor. They have popularized beauty. They have brought the trees there. They have brought music there. They have endeavored to spread all over this City—into the tenement-houses as well as into the Fifth-avenue mansions, these quiet, beautiful, honest means of amusement and elevation which the nearness of beautiful natural scenery always affords. See what in a few days has been done in the City Hall Park. The Battery garden is being remodeled and restored. The same, I am told, is the case with Tompkins-square. And thus, instead of mischief being done, good has been done by the admirable appointments which have been made by the gentlemen against whom the Republican Party is perpetually pouring out the vials of its abuse. Who have they appointed in the Department of Parks? Is HENRY HILTON a respectable appointment? He is the Treasurer and the chief executive officer of that Department; a gentle man who has filled high offices; a Judge; a jurist; a man the counselor of the most important mercantile interests in the world; a gentleman of culture and refinement. Is that an appointment which the Ring should be abused for making, or is it an appointment which, so far, should cover it with honor? Let us pass to the Education Board. Whom have we there? WM. WOOD, Mr. SANDS, of the Citizens' Association, MORTON GROSS—well, I represent the German element. What have they done? They have saved the City one million of dollars per year; and they have largely increased the accommodation to the scholars of the City.

Charities and Corrections: ISAAC BELL, Mr. NICHOLSON, Mr. BOWEN. Is there any objection to either of them?

Take the Police Department. Judge BOSWORTH—a man of dignity and reputation; the contemporary of and coequal with such men as OAKLEY and DUER—the flower and perfection of our judiciary in the days when they lived.

But there is at all events one spot, if any, where the Republican party would have cause to complain. I refer to the Department of Public Works. [Applause.] Ah, gentlemen, that Department is presided over by a fearful man!—commonly called "Boss TWEED." The accusations against Mr. TWEED (he will pardon me for alluding to them in his presence,) are very numerous and extremely difficult to deal with. It is said that Mr. TWEED has a gorgeous house! Well, I do not know about that; but I guess every one of us would like to have a gorgeous house! But Mr. TWEED has a stable; and he has horses; and he allows each horse ten feet square. That is a mistake; five is enough! There is also found a statement—which I must notice—have found it in a newspaper which I have been attentively reading for the past few days, and in which I find that there is absolutely nothing but Boss TWEED; I mean the TIMES; I took up the TIMES this morning, and I cannot recall how many times Boss TWEED was mentioned there. There was something about wolves in sheep's clothing; and he was there! There was an article on "Fraud," and of course TWEED was there! I got tired of it at last, and I turned to an innocent-looking article on saddle-horsemanship, and I read that; but I was taken in—sold—by it, for the whole thing was Boss TWEED. He was accused to accuse Boss TWEED with driving a magnificent equipage with six horses! Now, gentlemen, it seems to me that the perfection of Mr. TWEED'S house is a matter for Mr. TWEED'S family and for Mr. TWEED'S guests. The condition of Mr. TWEED'S stable is a matter of interest only to Mr. TWEED and to Mr. TWEED'S horses. And what the TIMES newspaper has to do with all these things, unless upon the principle I have alluded to, of flinging plenty of dirt, with the idea that some of it may stick, is more than I can understand. But there is one charge made against Mr. TWEED that is tangible, and that it is proper for us to make a reply to, and that is—and that was during this hot Summer weather, now gone by, he secretly purchased various ponds for twenty-five thousand dollars, and then sold them to the City of New-York for three hundred thousand dollars, and pocketed the money. Let us deal with this charge, for it is a tangible one. There is a good deal of truth in this charge, and that is the beauty of it. But, as I said, it is not all. It is partly a truth, is ever the blackest of lies, while a lie that is all a lie may be met with and fought outright; a lie that is half a truth is a harder matter to fight." This much of that story is true—that Mr. TWEED bought a pond. It was a hot Summer. It was a Summer whose torrid heat put to the test the pecuniary City Government to supply the City with water. There was danger that the people of this City would suffer for the want of water. Wealthy men foresaw the probable drouth; and I know of one case where a man of wealth was actually about to dig an artesian well, upon his own ground, under the impression that the water supply would fail. Mr. TWEED, acting on the emergency, bought these water rights with his own money. He saved the City. He kept the water in the reservoir up to the mark; he has got no money yet for his outlay; and I, as a citizen, return my thanks to Mr. TWEED for that generous act. [Applause.] These are the wild charges that have let fly loose about the society of the City of New-York and its Government. It is hard to answer them, coming in every shape, and of every kind. Men may fold their arms, and defy them; but I say that the Republican Party, in making these charges, is selfish, false, has no good in view by that; these are libels with a malicious purpose, and that all honorable men—all the high-minded men of every party—should unite in frowning down a course of this kind, which, instead of holding out encouragement to the new régime, instead of hoping from honest men, capable men, honest and capable acts, starts with the idea of discouraging those men in their efforts, to the serious detriment of the society which every public organ is bound to serve. Now, citizens, at the risk of tiring you for a few moments, let me speak out my thoughts upon this subject. The Finance Department, I have heard the accusations against it; but, as the same is said as well to what really is done with the public money of the City of New-York. The total expenses of the county and City are about $23,000,000; I do not profess perfect accuracy, but I think I am nearly accurate. I am not the financial agent, but I have picked up this information and I think it is correct. How much do you think is paid out of this money for State tax? $4,000,000 is that worthy a truth, is ever the blackest of lies, while a lie that is all a lie may be met with and fought outright; a lie that is half a truth is a harder matter to fight." This much of that story is true—that Mr. TWEED bought a pond. It was a hot Summer. It was a Summer whose torrid heat put to the test the pecuniary City Government to supply the City with water. There was danger that the people of this City would suffer for the want of water. He kept the water in the reservoir up to the mark; he has got no money yet for his outlay; and I, as a citizen, return my thanks to Mr. TWEED for that generous act. [Applause.] These are the wild charges that

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

No sales of City property were made at the Exchange yesterday, (Oct. 13,) although quite a large number of operators was in attendance. The only transaction of any kind effected was a rather singular one for New-York, and consisted of the sale of two guano islands, known as the "Swan Islands," and located in the Caribbean Sea. They were sold in pursuance of a judgment of the Supreme Court, in a suit against the New-York Guano Company, and with them all the wharves, houses, hotel buildings, machinery, boats and other property belonging thereto were disposed of. The first bid made was $3,800, from which the price advanced to $7,500, at which figure they were struck off, the purchaser being J. M. S. WILLIAMS. The sale was made by ROBERTS & McGUIRE, under the direction of JAMES H. COLEMAN, Esq., referee. The above comprised the business of the day. For the remainder of the week, the prospect for business activity, particularly at the Exchange, is dull. The only remaining sales noticed to take place this week are those to-morrow at Doyle's Ferry and at Pelham, by Messrs. JOHNSON & MILLER and A. J. BLEECKER, SON & Co. respectively. Both of these are important transactions, and full reference was made to them yesterday. Free excursions to Linden Park continue to be made, one taking place today and another to-morrow. In other respects, except the usual private sales from time to time effected, the market is quiet.

MONTCLAIR RAILWAY
(OF NEW-JERSEY.)
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
INDORSED BY THE
N. Y. AND OSWEGO MIDLAND
RAILROAD CO.

GREAT MIDLAND ROAD.

The First Mortgage Bonds of THE MONTCLAIR RAILWAY COMPANY, (the New-Jersey section of the Midland,) are now offered to the amount only of

HALF A MILLION OF DOLLARS.

They are payable, principal and interest,

IN GOLD.

The rate of interest is 7 per cent., payable semi-annually, FREE FROM GOVERNMENT TAX.

These bonds are secured by a first mortgage to JACOBUS L. WARD and ABRAM S. HEWITT, on the most valuable and profitable portion of THE MIDLAND RAILROAD, the traffic of which will alone suffice to pay a fair profit on the cost of construction.

The Montclair Railway

Connects with the Midland Railroad at Greenwood Lake, and is successfully operating the eastern section of that work, and ITS BONDS ARE GUARANTEED by that Company.

NEARLY 200 MILES

of this most important railroad are now completed and in successful operation, and THE MONTCLAIR RAILWAY, constituting the eastern terminus—forty miles in length—is progressing rapidly to construction, and will be completed by December, 1871, contemporaneously with the cities of New-York and Chicago, establishing a new route between New-York and the West, fifty miles shorter than that by the Central, and by way of Buffalo seventy miles shorter than either the Central or the Erie Roads.

We recommend these bonds as a safe and valuable investment.

They are secured by a first mortgage on THE MONTCLAIR RAILWAY and all its property, and EACH BOND BEARS THE INDORSEMENT of the

NEW-YORK AND OSWEGO MIDLAND RAILROAD COMPANY.

Should the LOCAL TRAFFIC of this road equal that of the Erie, as it connects New-York City with its most productive suburbs, thereby insuring a profitable business to the road.

The franchises of the Company, embracing railways and branches to be built, and an INDEPENDENT FERRY across Hudson River, will be free and are included in the mortgage, a value to the bonds in addition to that afforded by the property line.

The entire capital of both Companies, amounting at the present time to nearly $6,000,000 PAID IN, has been faithfully devoted to the economical construction of the road, is liable for the payment of these bonds.

The large rate of interest,

PAYABLE IN GOLD COIN,

affords to holders of Government Bonds a great inducement to change their investment. For instance: A Government Bond of $1,000 costs (say)..... $1,100
Yielding an income of..... 60
$1,100 invested in Montclair Railway Bonds, at par, yield an income of..... 77
Difference, $17, or 2¾ per cent.

These bonds are issued in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100, respectively. For sale by

JEROME PARK.

Fourth Day of the Regular Fall Meeting.

A Brilliant Assemblage and Splendid Racing—Scenes on the Road and on the Course—A Full Account of the Day's Sport.

It is, perhaps, a matter of doubt whether our American people will ever come to regard horse-racing as a national American institution, or to look upon the acquisition of a certain amount of knowledge in that connection as essentially necessary to being known as a "thorough gentleman"—at least as that designation is regarded in the "tight little island," for which the House of Hanover furnishes rulers. Certain it is, however, that the acquisition of such knowledge as pertains to the turf is becoming, among us, more and more useful every year, if we would thoroughly understand the length and breadth of the ideas evolved by the number of people who know how to "talk horse," and who are so proud to show forth their knowledge in this respect. Judging, therefore, the future by the past, it is not an impossible thing, to say the least of it, that the time may come when the Metropolis of the Western World may find itself almost depopulated by the advent of some "Derby Day," which shall call out to Jerome Park, or to Prospect Park, all sorts and conditions of men—and of women, too—even as the recurrence of that occasion peoples the field of Epsom. Whether the penchant for money-getting, which, among us, swallows up all minor considerations, will ever be so far relaxed as to permit of such a state of things, may be a query which we leave those philosophers to settle who make national characteristics, their causes and effects, a peculiar study. It is a fact of some importance in this connection, however, that such of our fellow-citizens as find great enjoyment in sports a-field, and become thoroughly interested in the success of horse-racing, belong to our most reputable classes, and are, unconsciously, perhaps, educating the masses up to such a standard of appreciation in this particular as obtains in "Merrie England." This is not to be regretted. If we are to become, as a people, more interested than he retofore in the sports of the turf, it is better that our education in this matter shall be undertaken by those who can foster it independently of the use of those accessories which, if horse-racing were left in other and less worthy hands, would make them simply excuses for practices that are to be deprecated by every people who desire to preserve a reputation for honesty and social virtue. The establishment, therefore, of our racing parks under the management of such trusty citizens as have taken them in hand, is a matter of congratulation rather than otherwise. Among these, Jerome Park has fairly earned the first place; and the vast crowds of worthy citizens, who, with their wives and daughters, attend there on the occasions when fleet horses are put to test their powers one against another, is evidence sufficient in proof of the fact that the American Jockey Club has the best wishes of that class whose good-will is at all desirable, in its efforts to make that Park a place of popular yet highly reputable resort.

Yesterday was the occasion of the fourth day's races for the Fall season, and a large number of people of both sexes enjoyed them. The day opened inauspiciously, and from the inclemency of the weather, it was naturally surmised that the attendance would be sparse, if, indeed, there were any race at all. A heavy, dull, dreary atmosphere characterized the early morning, and attempts at rain made themselves apparent up to 11 o'clock A. M. A change then came over the face of Nature, and the sun gave evidence of its determination to dispel the dreary clouds which had, up to this time, prevented metropolitans from enjoying his smiling beams; and in this he was successful. The hazy weather, with its accompanying rain drops, cleared away, and at midday we were enjoying all the beauties of that be-praised and be-poemed affair, a health-giving October sun. In consequence, many who had previously given up the idea of being present at the Park, changed their minds, and set out for Fordham. The attendance was really far greater than any one had expected. Notwithstanding the rain that had fallen had made the roads somewhat heavy, there was a fair display of vehicles traversing the thoroughfares leading to Fordham, and by 2 P. M., when the racing began, the green sward contiguous to the track contained a large collection of fancy turn-outs. There were the dog-cart, the drag, and the landau, side by side with the sprightly buggy, the fashionable barouche, and the unpretentious hack. Ladies were present in goodly numbers at the Club-house and on the grand stand, and seemed to be, in many instances, as much interested in the success of the races as were their masculine attendants. There was a grand display of finery and fashion, and no little amount of small talk and flirtation among those who are not exactly "up" in matters of the turf, but who, nevertheless, consider the races a proper thing to "do" when the meetings at Jerome Park are on the tapis. The track was very heavy, and impeded, to a most appreciable extent, the speed of the racers; though it was excellent in the way of bringing out the full amount of bottom that the animals were possessed of. The pool-selling was spirited, and Dr. UNDERWOOD was taxed to run all the changes of the gamut, and to resort to a number of not altogether inferior puns, in order to vary the monotony of his auctioneering. As usual, there was any amount of discussion as to the points of the various animals which were to take part in the proceedings; and, while many thus had an opportunity of airing their proficiency, in a knowledge of the Turf Register, others not so learned looked on and listened attentively to the history, not only of the racers on this occasion, but of the famous horses of the olden days. The time made on various occasions by Fashion, by Peytona, by Boston, Lady Suffolk, and other horses, whose names, thirty years ago, were in the mouths of sporting men, was re-called, and wise opinions offered as to the qualities of the racers of to-day, compared with those whose exploits in years gone by set the sporting world all agog. So much was this the topic of conversation among one knot of attendants, that the listener fancied himself carried back to the time when SAM LADD rode Fashion, ran against Boston, and won in 7:42½ and 7:45, and when the generous HIRAM WOODRUFF—green be the turf above him!—was an acknowledged authority on all equine matters. Betting, of course, was indulged in to a considerable extent—who ever heard of a horse-race without it?—and even the ladies, in some instances, put up small stakes on the result of the contests. The genial JOHN CHAMBERLAIN, as usual, dispensed, with a generous hand, gratuitous refreshments to such of his friends as chose to call at his little house on the hill, and numbers took advantage of the opportunity to satisfy the appetites which the excitement of the day and the breathing of the fresh country air had sharpened. As the races proceeded one after another the excitement increased, and when the third race was called—Selling Sweepstakes of $25 each, play or pay, with $500 added—it had reached fever heat.

Six races were on the programme. The first one, for Members' Cup, handicap, one mile and mile and an eighth, was simply walked over. Two horses, Climax and Rapture, were entered, but only one put in an appearance. The second, sweepstakes of $50 each, with $1,000 added, three heats of two miles each, was run at 2½ P. M. There were four entries, but only two started, Nannie Douglas and Haric. The O'Donnell colt won the first heat, but the mare bore off the laurels in the second and third heats, and at the end of the latter passed under the string the winner of a well-contested match.

The third race—Selling Sweepstakes, one mile and five-eighths—had five entries, and all started—Climax, Athlone, Oak Leaf, Edenton and Rapture. It was nip and tuck between Edenton and Climax, both striving for the lead, and the race ended in Edenton's passing the Judge's stand winner in 3:03½.

The fourth race was the most exciting one of all—a dash of one and a quarter miles; six entries, all started. Lady Petry, Hilarity, Echo, Mozart, Flash of Lightning, and an unnamed colt made up this contest, which ended in Lady Petry being declared the winner, though not an easy one; Time—2:21¼. This filly is a beautiful piece of horse-flesh, sired by Lexington out of Ansel's dam.

The fifth race was a dash of three-quarters of a mile, for a purse of $600, for two-year olds. There were three starters, Elsie, Nickajack and Nannie. They passed under the string in the order named, Elsie being an easy winner in 1:25.

The last race was to have been a match for $1,200—distance one mile and an eighth—between an unnamed bay colt, and By the Sea, a chestnut colt belonging to Mr. AUGUST BELMONT. As there was only one appearance put in, however, the chestnut colt merely shewed up, and thus ended the day's sport.

On the return home the road was filled with jaunty turn-outs, numbers of which arrived on the ground while the races were progressing, and the experts in handling the ribbons put their animals through their paces in fine style. Hundreds who had no conveyances footed it to the depot, and the 5:30 train bore city-ward as well satisfied a party of sport-lovers as ever set out for the Park.

THE RACING.

The six events on the card were reduced to four by the withdrawal of Climax in the Members' Cup race, and by Messrs. DENISON & CRAWFORD paying forfeit in their match with Mr. BELMONT. The withdrawing of Climax in the former race was productive of much dissatisfaction in the betting ring. Pools were sold on the Course, on this race, and considerable betting at even between the only two horses in the race, Climax and Rapture, was transacted among the outside public, who do not bet largely. By the rules of the American Jockey Club, all money bet on Climax was lost on his being withdrawn, and the bets only to pay; while those who had bought the same horse in pools saved their money, as they were not "play or pay." The gross injustice of this rule was strongly commented on by those who, not being posted in the constantly-changing rules of the Jockey Club, were victimized out of their money. The system of play or pay betting, which the American Jockey Club in their adoption of the English system of betting have introduced on the turf here, is opposed to the American ideas of racing fair play, for it opens the door to the grossest fraud and rascality, and ought to be altogether abolished. Except at Saratoga, where the American Jockey Club rules have been adopted, there is not another racing association in the country where play-or-pay betting is in force.

The two-mile-heat race was narrowed down to a match between Nannie Douglas and Haric, with the mare a great favorite. Haric beat her opponent handily in the first heat, a very fast-run one, that two to one was the current betting on his winning the race. Some shrewd judges, who looked at him after the heat, saw that he was considerably distressed, and they quietly invested their money on the mare. The result showed the soundness of their judgment, for Haric tired badly after going a mile in the second heat, and Nannie Douglas won it easily. The third heat she won so far that Haric would have been shut out had their been any distance in a third heat.

The Selling Sweepstakes brought out a field of five horses, and for the second time at this meeting Edenton won, beating Climax, his only dangerous opponent, very easily at the finish, thanks to the light weight he carried. When he won the Selling Stakes on the second day, his sale at auction realized a surplus of $210, Mr. JOHN O'DONNELL becoming his purchaser, although he still remained in CHARLES LITTLEFIELD'S stable. After his victory today, he was put at auction, in accordance with the conditions of the race, and was bought in for $560. He goes into A. TAYLOR'S stable.

The victory of Lady Petry in the three-year-old race, and the clever manner in which it was achieved, led many good judges to think that she would have won the Jerome Sweepstakes instead of Kenwrekins, on the second day of the meeting, had not her rider lost his stirrup, and with it all control of his filly. Mozart was the favorite, but he cut up badly, finishing a bad fourth. The Donerailе colt was second, a position he seems unable to improve upon.

The two-year-old race was exactly what the pool-betting prefigured—any odds on Mr. WITHERS' grand-looking Leamington filly Elsie, who galloped away from her two opponents, and won without being fairly extended.

THE MEMBERS' CUP.

The Members' Cup, a handicap sweepstakes of $50 each, play or pay, with $250 added, one mile and an eighth, had only two entries, Rapture, four years, 142 pounds, and Climax, aged, 155 pounds. At the last moment it was declared that Climax would not start, and Rapture, in consequence, galloped over for the prize. The dissatisfaction caused among the backers of Climax by the decision that all bets on the race, made on the track or at the Club-rooms, were play or pay, while pools were not, has been already alluded to.

FOURTH DAY, Thursday, Oct. 13.—FIRST RACE.—Members' Cup.—Handicap sweepstakes of $50 each, play or pay, with $250 added. One mile and an eighth.

J. K. Lawrence's b. f. Rapture, 4 years, 142 pounds.....W. o.
C. Livingston's br. h. Climax, aged, 155 pounds. dr.

THE TWO-MILE-HEAT RACE.

This race was a sweepstakes of $50 each, pay or play, with $1,000 added, of which the second horse took $200 and the third horse $100; had four entries—Haric, Nannie Douglas, Oakleaf and Mildred. Mildred was withdrawn, being saved for the Dinner Party Stakes on Saturday, while Oakleaf was reserved for the succeeding race. The race was consequently reduced to a match between Nannie Douglas and Haric, the former having the call in the pool-betting, bringing $800 to Haric's $300.

FIRST HEAT.—Haric jumped away in front, but was passed at the turn by the mare, who made the running, with Haric at her haunches, for the first mile. On the next quarter Haric closed on the mare, and was on even terms with her as they went around the Club-house hill. When the horses came in sight again, Haric had fallen back a little, but evidently under a pull. At the head of the stretch he was at Nannie's saddle-girths, closed steadily on her in coming up the straight, and after a splendid finish, beat her cleverly by a neck. The time, 3:49, was very fast, considering the heavy track.

SECOND HEAT.—Betting, $600 to $250 on Haric. Nannie Douglas made the running throughout the first mile, leading Haric two lengths as they passed under the string. The latter began to tire on the first quarter of the second mile, and BROWN had to use the whip to keep her going. The mare held her lead throughout, and won the heat easily by six lengths in 3:57.

THIRD HEAT.—No betting. Haric went for the lead for the purpose of tiring the running, but the mare quickly passed him, and the three-year-old being "pumped out," Nannie Douglas galloped away from him, and beat him home by forty lengths. Time—4:04½.

SECOND RACE.—Sweepstakes of $50 each, play or pay, with $1,000 added, of which $200 to the second horse, the third horse to receive $100 out of the stakes; heats of two miles.

Bacon & Holland's b. m. Nannie Douglas, 4 years, by Rogers, dam by Wagner. 105 pounds, (Robinson).....2 1 1
J. O'Donnell's b. g. Haric, 5 years, by Australian, dam Brenna, 95 pounds, (Brown).....1 2 2
Time—3:49, 3:57, 4:04½.

THE SELLING RACE.

The selling race of $25 each, play or pay, with $500 added, one mile and five-eighths, had five runners. BROOKLYN.

The congregation of the Elm-place Congregational Church are at present in a rather excited condition over the way things have been managed of late by the pastor, Rev. HENRY POWERS. He is accused of being unsound on doctrinal points and of being unsuccessful in interesting his auditors generally. To consider these matters a meeting was held, on Tuesday last, at which an effort was made to have a resolution passed requesting him to resign, but owing to some little dissension an adjournment was had for two weeks, at which time the subject will be taken up again.

Rev. TITUS COAN, missionary from Hawaii, delivered an interesting lecture last evening before a large audience in Plymouth Church, on the volcanos of the Sandwich Islands. After referring to the fact that the islands were evidently of volcanic origin, he pointed out with much clearness the effect that the frequent eruptions had produced on the native mind, not the least noticeable of which was their superstitious belief in the existence of evil powers, whose business appeared to be the tormenting of the human race. He concluded by describing in vivid style the great eruption that took place on the Island of Hawaii in the Spring of last year.

At an early hour yesterday morning, a fight occurred at the corner of John-street and Hudson-avenue, among a crowd of roughs. In the course of which one of the party, named EDWARD DOLAN, stabbed another named THOMAS SAVAGE, four times in the leg with a pocket-knife. In the Suffolk County Court of Oyer and Terminer, on Wednesday, JACOB HILBERTS, who had been indicted for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, pleaded not guilty to assault with intent to do bodily harm, and was sentenced by the Court to Sing Sing for one year. The prisoner assaulted a fellow-workman at Dix Hills with a pitch-fork.

The female pickpocket, KATE KELLY, alias Frank Burns, who, it will be remembered, was arrested by Officer CORWIN, for picking the pocket of a lady at the Agricultural Fair at Riverhead, last week, and who was committed to the County Jail by Justice CORWIN, was arraigned on three indictments for larceny, yesterday. In the absence of material witnesses, the prisoner was admitted to bail in the sum of $2,500, to appear at the next session of the Criminal Court.

NEW-JERSEY.

A somewhat sensational story appears in a Jersey City paper. A gentleman of that city, who is a commercial traveler, the story goes, has a wife who has been absent for some time in Europe. She returned on the Abyssinia two weeks ago, and during the voyage became enamored of one of the officers, and lived on quite intimate relations with him, being looked upon by the passengers as his wife. On arriving in Jersey City, the lady expecting her husband, who was away from home, to be absent for some time, took the paramour to her home, where he spent most of his time while in port. Just before the sailing of the vessel she proceeded to dispose of the valuables in the house, and made preparations for returning to England with the officer. The husband returned home in time to prevent this, and is now making application for a divorce.

At a meeting of the Board of School Commissioners at Elizabeth, it was voted to abolish the grade of Principal of the Intermediate Department of Schools Nos. 1 and 2. A motion was offered that the German language be taught in Schools Nos. 1 and 2. The motion was referred to the Committee on Teachers. There is every probability that the system will be adopted, as there are a large number of German residents in Elizabeth who desire that their children be taught their native language.

A council of Congregational churches of Hudson County, New-Jersey, was held at the New Congregational Church on Bergen-avenue, Jersey City, yesterday afternoon. The pastors of the churches were present, as were also some of the leading official members. The new church was received into the "Fellowship of churches," and public services of "recognition" were held, at which Rev. J. B. WILCOX preached a sermon.

The officers of last year were re-elected. The Convention indorsed the action of the Good Luck Association in purchasing property at that place. The next annual Convention will be held at Irvington.

ANDREW CRATER was arrested in Trenton, yesterday, and was committed for trial upon a charge of forgery. About one year ago he attempted to pass an altered check for $600, certified by the Central National Bank of New-York, upon SAMUEL R. SMITH, a broker of Trenton. SMITH took the check, promising to "see about it," but pending the investigation as to its genuineness, CRATER, who then passed under the name of Vroome, disappeared. His whereabouts were unknown until yesterday, when he was arrested.

The Union Convention of Christians is still in session in Newark, and is well attended. Yesterday, after the conclusion of the devotional exercises, an opportunity was given for short addresses and narrations of personal experience. The resolutions adopted by the Convention favor the holding of meetings for the "promotion of holiness among Christians," and declare that "the doctrine of sanctification by faith cannot be radically inconsistent with any system of divinity founded on the Holy Scriptures."

Mrs. MAUD EARNEST discoursed in opposition to "Woman's Rights" in Library Hall, Newark, Wednesday night, to an audience of perhaps forty persons. She deprecated the necessity which caused women to work at such low wages as some of them are obliged to accept, but asked, "What have the women's rights females ever done to alleviate their condition?"

The small-pox, which has been raging in Newark, is now almost entirely checked, and the health of the city is remarkably good.
